Madrid Forces Hurled Back By Rebel Offensive

Surprise Drive Towards Madrid Is Made In Toledo Road Sector

REBELS EXPECT TO TAKE MADRID SOON

Loyalists Summon 10,000 Troops For Stand At Torrijon De La Calzada

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MADRID, Oct. 19.—Hurled back to within 19 miles of the capital by a sudden Rebel offensive on the Toledo road, the Madrid forces, now cut off from all rail access to the provinces, today summoned 10,000 reinforcements for a stand at Torrijon De La Calzada.

Jubilantly relating the rebel successes of the week-end, in which the insurgent semi-circle moved closer to Madrid all along the line except at the Leon Pass, Gen. Queipo De Llano, broadcasting from Burgos, said:

"Madrid In Two Weeks."

"These successive victories will lead us to Madrid within two weeks."

The relief of Oviedo by a rebel column was also confirmed today, and insurrector triumphs on the Huesca front and at Bilbao were likewise claimed.

The road southeast of Madrid was jammed with troops speeding south-

"Beware of wet leaves, they are a major motoring hazard," the state highway department warns in its detour bulletin for the current period. Motorists who have had experience with skids caused by wet leaves will agree that this is right. People should drive carefully during the period that leaves are falling.

Although oiling operations are virtually at an end for the year, there is still some going on, the detour bulletin of the state highway department for the period ending October 30, reveals. Oiling operations are taking place in Mercer county at Greenville and south of Greenville on route 58, between Jackson Center and Stoneboro, and in Stoneboro on route 62. There are no new detours in the district.

From observation of the workings of the traffic light at Grant and Jefferson streets, Pa Newc is of the opinion that erection of the light at that corner is not a solution of the situation. Why wouldn't it be a good idea to route 422 traffic over State street to Washington street, or turn it down Beaver street to Washington street, to eliminate a lot of the difficulty at the corner?

Parking on the streets in the downtown section was so much as a premium Saturday evening, that one driver, unable to find a parking spot on the street, backed up on top of one of the large concrete back stops in the P. & L. E. freight yard on East Washington street.

Pyle Is Accorded Workers' Tribute

David S. Pyle is not likely to forget the testimonial smoker tendered him in the Cathedral Saturday night, October 17, for a long time. Nor will any of the men and women of the Carnegie Illinois Steel Corporation forget it for the affair was one of those demonstrations that are not easily forgotten.

It was a tribute of affection in which the retired general superintendent of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation is held by the host of men and women who served under him. It was a public acknowledgement of the respect they hold for the man they called the boss for so many years. There was no "sadness of farewell" about the affair, none of the lachrymose sentiment that usually attends similar functions. There was always a "man-to-man" relationship between Mr. Pyle and his employes. There was a genuineness about Saturday night's affair that needed no tears to stamp its authenticity.

Glenn Riggs, of Pittsburgh and a group of entertainers occupied the earlier hours of the evening with a

Alice Longworth Says

(Special To The News)

CINCINNATI, Oct. 19.—The Russian dictator senses the need, as do all dictators, of asserting himself abroad in order to make an impression at home. Moscow, having charged Germany, Italy and Portugal with sending aid to the Fascists in Spain, now demands blockade of Portuguese ports to prevent shipment of arms to the anti-communities. There is more than a strong intimation that failure to heed this demand will bring active Russian intervention.

In all fairness, the Fascist powers cannot blame the Russians for helping the Reds so long as the Whites help the Whites. But there is graver danger today than ever before during the Spanish revolution that Spain may become a testing ground for the Soviet air fleet, as opposed to planes of the more conservative European nations.

Of course, there is the recently made non-intervention agreement, which pledges all of these countries to keep hands off in Spain. It is not probable, however, that any of the signatories took the document seriously when they signed it.

Local Hospitals On American College Of Surgeons Approved List

Both the Jameson Memorial hospital and the New Castle hospital retain their approval of the American College of Surgeons for the coming year, it was announced. In a list of approved hospitals made public by the American College of Surgeons both of the hospitals are given the approval as standardized hospitals.

In order to qualify for this approval a hospital must have proper equipment, proper nursing service and an ethical, competent staff. There are a number of other rigid requirements and in all of them the Jameson Memorial and the New Castle hospitals meet the standards.

Other hospitals in this district that are given approval are Providence hospital in Beaver Falls, Butler County Memorial hospital in Butler, Beaver Valley General hospital in New Brighton and Christian H. Buhl hospital in Sharon. The approval for the Butler hospital is a "provisional approval" which mean that the hospital has accepted the minimum requirements of the American College of Surgeons but for lack of time or other acceptable reasons have not yet been able to carry them out in detail.

Dr. George Crile is the chairman of the Board of Regents of the college and the announcement of the approval of 3569 hospitals in the United States and Canada came today from Philadelphia where the American College of Surgeons is opening its 26th annual clinical congress.

Inaugurated 19 years ago the standardization requirements set down for hospitals has resulted in better hospital service and a reduction in the mortality rate from hospital cases.

Dramatic Rescue Of Lake Shipwreck Survivors

RESCUE OF SURVIVORS BY STEAMER THUNDER BAY QUARRIES; NOTE MAN BEING HAULED ABOARD FROM OVERTURNED LIFEBOAT.

This dramatic Central Press photograph, shows the final act in the rescue of survivors of one of the worst tragedies on Lake Erie in years. The sand sucker Sand Merchant, bound from Toronto to Cleveland, sank in a heavy sea 15 miles off Cleveland, with the loss of 19, (including one woman), of its crew of 27. Four men, including Captain Graham MacClelland, clung all night to an overturned lifeboat. They finally were sighted by the Steamer Thunder Bay Quarries—and here is a scene of the rescue. The Thunder Bay Quarries took these survivors to Sandusky, O., while the three remaining survivors were brought into Cleveland. Ships cruising in the vicinity of the tragedy could find no additional survivors. Waves washed many from deck as ill-fated craft sank.

Inquire Into Stucki Death

Coroner's Jury Holds That Collision Could Have Been Avoided By Mrs. Williams

NO EYEWITNESSES TO CRASH FOUND

After hearing the testimony of witnesses who told about the circumstances surrounding the collision which resulted in the death of J. H. Stucki, of Canton, O., on the Harlansburg road, October 1, a coroner's jury found that the fatal collision could have been avoided by the exercise of due precaution by Mrs. Blanche Williams, who was driving the car which collided with Mr. Stucki's. The inquest was held by Coroner Orville Potter in the court of Alderman L. C. Mantz, Saturday afternoon.

Dr. William H. Hinkson stated that he had been called to take care of Mr. Stucki who was brought to the Jameson Memorial hospital about 12 o'clock noon, on October 1.

He had a fracture of the vault of the skull, which ran straight up through the middle, with herniation of the brain. He died at 1:15, just after leaving the operating room.

Hears Crash

George Johnston, of R. F. D. No. 4, who resides about 500 feet away from the scene of the crash, told of hearing the noise of the collision and going to the scene. When he arrived he saw Kenneth Williams handing a baby to one of the neighbors. He saw Mrs. Williams slumped under the steering wheel of the car unconscious. He said he did not see the other children, but heard them screaming. The left front wheel of the Williams car was in the ditch on the left hand side of Thomas was found guilty of beating Harry Zumburn to death with a hammer during a holdup at Churubusco, last June.

EXECUTE FOUR FOR MURDER IN FLORIDA PRISON

Convicted Men Go To Death Calmly, One After Another, Today

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

STATE PRISON, RAIFORD, Fla., Oct. 19.—The state of Florida today swiftly snuffed out the lives of four convicted murderers—three of them white men and one a Negro.

The four condemned men, all of whom had spent the most of last night in almost continuous prayer, were surprisingly calm as they walked through the small door in the death chamber and took their seat in the lethal chair.

Clarence D. "Red" Casey was the first to die. He was convicted of slaying Frank D. Palmer, a Miami druggist, in 1931.

Casey's partner in the slaying of Palmer, Jimmy Milligan, was the next figure in the grim death march.

Then came L. D. Padgett of Santa Rosa county, who was convicted of slaying his wife with a turpentine hack in 1934.

Lee Clark, the Negro, also was calm as he shuffled through the door into the death chamber. He was condemned for the slaying of his wife.

Attorney Orville Brown, candidate for Congress, spoke briefly and thanked the county committee for their work in conducting this campaign. T. Wilber McCullough and W. Sharp Fullerton, candidates

Reporter Ends World Journey Under 19 Days

Reaches New York Office This Morning After Record Trip

TWO OTHERS IN RACE IN MANILA

All Previous Records For Round World Journey Are Badly Broken

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—H. R. Ekins, New York World-Telegram reporter, arrived at his newspaper office at 11.14.24 a. m. today, setting a new record for around the world travel of 18 days, 14 hours, 56 minutes and 57 seconds.

He is the first of three newspaper representatives to complete his journey.

Ekins checked in at his office here after a fast automobile trip from Newark airport, where his transcontinental plane landed at 10.49.48 a. m. He made the final dash in a private car, with a police escort. He required more than five minutes to transfer from the plane to his auto.

Previous Record

The previous record was set in 1928 by John H. Mears and Capt. C. B. D. Collyer, who required 23 days, 15 hours, 21 minutes and three second. They flew all of the way, except to take a steamer from Tokyo to Vancouver.

In 1929 the Graf Zeppelin took 35 days for a round the world flight, although the actual flying time was only 20 days and four hours.

The late Wiley Post flew around the world in 1933 in seven days, 18 hours, 49½ minutes, but his course, far to the north, covered only 15,500 miles. Ekins estimated he covered more than 25,000 miles.

His two rivals, Miss Dorothy Kilgallen, of the New York Evening Journal and International News Service, and Leo Kieran, of the New York Times and North American Newspaper Alliance, are still held at Manila.

NEW ISSUE IN CAMPAIGN

G.O.P. Speech Is Halted On Radio

Senator Vandenberg Has New Idea And Broadcasting Station Is Bewildered

PART OF STATIONS SHUT OFF SPEECH

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—A new issue in the presidential campaign arose today as a result of the partial suppression by the Columbia Broadcasting System of a radio speech being delivered last Saturday night by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan on behalf of the Republican ticket.

Senator Vandenberg had a new idea in political campaigning. This was to put on the air electrical transcriptions of statemnts made by President Roosevelt four years ago during the campaign for the presidency, and then to comment upon them, showing, from the Republican point of view, that the president had not lived up to his former promises.

So new was the idea that officials of the Columbia broadcasting service were afraid that it would infringe a long-standing rule against broadcasting of records except with the authority of those who had made them. So Senator Vandenberg was cut off completely in some parts of the country, partially heard in others and the speech which he had prepared went over the air from only a limited number of stations.

Defends Action.

New York, Oct. 19.—Senator Arthus H. Vandenberg of Michigan, in an interview at Republican headquarters today, warmly defended his action Saturday night in Broadcasting a "fireside chat" during which he used the recorded voice of President Roosevelt.

The broadcast — characterized as a "debate" by Democrats — has created a political furore. It was carried on radio stations, carried in part on others and cut off from still others.

At the same time Senator Vandenberg made public a telegram he had sent to George Henry Payne of the Federal Communications commission at Washington. In it Vandenberg made public a telegram he had sent to George Henry Payne of the Federal Communications Commission at Washington. In it Vandenberg denied his broadcast was either unethical or disrespectful, and asserted:

"I defy you to identify a single disrespectful word unless you call it disrespectful to prove a broken pledge."

Senator Vandenberg, in his telegram to Payne, charged that "legitimate" free speech was "infringed" in the cutting off of the broadcast.

He has reached the age of 68, and feels that it is his duty to retire and make room for a yonger and more active man, although his ability belies his age.

His resignation has been presented to Public Safety Director J. Myron Rice, and a successor will be chosen later.

COUNTY G. O. P. LEADERS MEET

for the General Assembly from the first and second districts of Lawrence county respectively, were introduced and expressed their appreciation of what was being done in this campaign.

City Solicitor Harry Jones of McKeesport, Pa., was the chief speaker of the evening. In a vigorous manner he attacked the present administration's wastefulness and extravagance, the disregard for the constitution and the attempt to tear down the governmental structure that was built by the founders of this country.

Mr. Jones predicted victory on November 3 and said it would be an "American victory for American institutions".

The war in Spain will be remembered as the only one in which decent people hated to see either side win.

FAITH

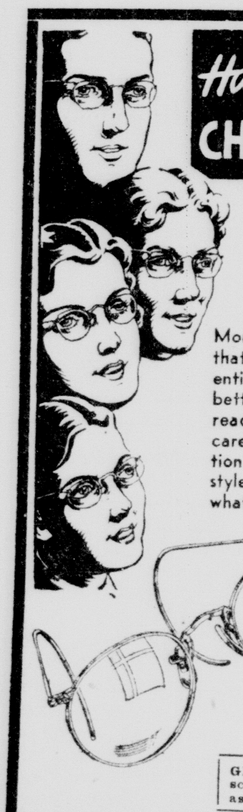

Every good, red-blooded American citizen should resent the cluttering up of the United States mail by political advertisements, with no postage and addressed to nobody, no matter what party does it.

The citizens and business men of the United States pay for keeping up the mail service and there is a very strict law and heavy fine for any business man that would use the mail boxes of the rural districts or the city post office as a place to put advertisements.

We would think the law was made for all people alike. Box owners, both rural and city, should refuse to lift this mail, and let it be taken out by the people who put it there.

Miss Carolyn Landolf of 320 East Long avenue, a student nurse in the Mercy hospital, Pittsburgh, Miss Hope Landolf of 320 East Long avenue, Miss Pauline DiThomas, Center street, and Miss Antonnette Ferrara of Pollock avenue, were ridins in a car driven by Frank Ferrari of Pennsylvania avenue, who was en route home from Pittsburgh. The party escaped injuries, save for slight bruises and shock. Howard Jones of R. F. D. No. 2, Ellwood City, was driving the other vehicle which figured in the collision. MRS. PHILLIPS COMING FOR ADDRESS THURSDAY

"Hold Fast To That Which Is Good" is the subject of the address which Mrs. John M. Phillips will present to Lawrence county club women at the meeting to be sponsored by the junior club groups on Thursday evening, October 22, in Highland U. P. church.

It will be an open meeting, with anyone in the county interested being welcome to attend. The hour is 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Phillips, who is widely known as the state president of the Federation, is also active in civic and religious organizations. She was state chairman of the department of the American Home and has the distinction of being the founder of the Carrick Mothers' club, one of the oldest clubs in Pittsburgh.

In her profound interest in club work, lies a particular goal which is to leave every county in Pennsylvania federated, and the number of club women doubled.

The message which Mrs. Phillips is to bring to the women of Lawrence county on October 22 promises to be one of keen interest and deep inspiration.

The Junior Woman's club, Junior Reading Circle, Federated Juniors and the Sub-Juniors combined will be hostesses for the evening.

SEWING WEDNESDAY AT JAMESON HOSPITAL

Sewing at Jameson Memorial hospital will be continued on Wednesday morning of this week, with members of the Epworth M. E. Guild presiding as hostesses. The same hours from 9 until 12 o'clock will be observed and the Guild women, who have charge of the hospital sewing throughout October, extend a cordial invitation to other women interested, to be present on this date and assist with the work.

For those desiring transportation to and from the hospital, they will be accommodated by calling Mrs. James D. Crawford, chairman of the "Motor Cavalcade" committee.

The ceremony will be quietly performed at the Patterson home, by Rev. Father William Galvin. Mrs. John E. Patterson, sister-in-law of the bride-to-be, will be the matron of honor, and Charles Fitzwilson, of Pittsburgh, will be the best man. Music will be furnished by Mrs. J. L. Reed.

INFORMAL PARTY HONORS BIRTHDAY

Honoring their mother, Mrs. Charles Gardner of East Brook, her five daughters assembled in the home of the eldest, Mrs. B. Hilyard, at 704 Chestnut street, Friday evening to help celebrate her birthday anniversary.

Reminiscing of olden days filled in a part of the social period. Two songs, "Happy Birthday" and "My Cup Is Running Over", were contributed by Thelma Hilyard. At the close of the evening all joined in singing the first selection named.

Lunch was served at a suitable time by the daughters of the honored guest at a table adorned with a large birthday cake aglow with tiny candles. Pink and white appointments prevailed, and bouquets of the season's flowers added further to the colorful setting.

Mrs. Gardner was the recipient of a collection of lovely gifts as remembrances of the occasion.

Hallowe'en Party.

Mothers Circle of the First M. E. church will have a Hallowe'en party Friday evening in the Wallace avenue home of Mrs. J. R. Hodge. The entertainment committee, Mrs. C. B. MOSES-BESHERO WEDDING SUNDAY

In the beautifully decorated St. John Syrian Roman Catholic church, Howard Way, Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, before an assemblage of friends and relatives of the couple, the Rev. Fr. Elias Nader, pastor, united in holy matrimony, Miss Jane Moses, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moses, of West Long avenue, and Alex Beshero, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Beshero, of 13½ East Long avenue.

The bride, who was attractively gowned in white satin and a long veil of real lace, was given in marriage by her father. Miss Moses' arm bouquet was of calla lilies. Miss Susie James, as maid of honor, was attired in pink satin with harmonizing accessories. Joe Joseph, one of the groom's closest associates, served as best man. The bridesmaids, close friends of the bride, were the Misses Ann Abraham, Sadie Beshero, Ann Joseph and Marie Joseph. Peter Beshero, George Joseph, Sam Beshero and Albert Moses ushered.

Following the church ceremony, members of the immediate families and a large number of guests, many from out of town, gathered in the dining room of the church where a sumptuous wedding dinner was served.

Late last night Mr. and Mrs. Beshero departed for a honeymoon to Atlantic City and other points of interest. Upon returning the newlyweds will be at home to their friends at 13½ East Long avenue.

Among the out of town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Tony Slyman, of Beaver Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Tony Betters, of Pittsburgh; Mr. and Mrs. A. BURTONITES MEET AT KEPHART RESIDENCE

Mrs. Theodore Kephart delightfully entertained Burtonites when they gathered in her home, West Washington street extension, Saturday evening for their regular meeting.

During the evening the members joined in a pleasing game of 500, and high score prizes were awarded to George Edwards and Clark Miller.

When the Burtonites were invited to the dining room of the Kephart home they were delightfully surprised at the outstanding decorations in orange and black which adorned the table. A delicious luncheon was on the table, and Mrs. Kephart, assisted by several of the other ladies, served a most appetizing repast.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. George Edwards, West Washington street extension, in two weeks.

W. B. A. Wednesday.

Wednesday evening Women's Benefit Association, Review 98, will meet in the Clendenin hall on Washington street. This meeting will mark the anniversary of the Review in New Castle.

All Day Meeting Opens Daughters 1812 Program

Departing from their usual procedure, Daughters of 1812 opened their fall meeting on Saturday with an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. M. B. Dinsmore, Highland Heights.

At 10 o'clock the business session was called by the president, Mrs. Dinsmore. Mrs. W. H. Weinschenk led the devotionals and after routine matters had been transacted and activities for the near year outlined, luncheon was served.

The program for the day consisted of a splendid paper on "Big House Ceremonies" referring to Indian customs, which was presented by Miss Hannah Retta McCracken. Mrs. Harvey Robinson, who was a guest, gave a summarization of the life of Ira D. Sankey, her uncle.

A picture of Ira D. Sankey, one of Lawrence county's pioneer residents, was presented by Mrs. Charles Greer to Mrs. A. T. Eckles, who will ahve it prominently hung in King's Chapel. Mrs. Eckles was given an ovation for her part, assisted by Mrs. M. B. Dinsmore, president of the Daughters, in the recent impressive ceremonies at King's Chapel at which tablets were unveiled, marking King's Chapel as the oldest Methodist church in Lawrence county and in honor of Ira D. Sankey, who was converted there. Mrs. Dinsmore presided at the Sunday occasion.

Another pleasant feature of Saturday's meeting was the presentation to New Castle Perry Chapter, of a Daughters of 1812 emblem, in the form of a star and anchor. This was the gift of Mrs. Marvin Dinsmore and Mrs. Frances Pinkerton.

Music was furnished by Mrs. Mary Wright Dean and Mrs. W. H. Luikart, the former composing and singing a song entitled "The Spirit of '36." Remarks were heard from Attorney Margaret Toepfer.

Special guests were Attorney Toepfer, Mrs. Fred Donaldson, Mrs. Harvey Robinson, Mrs. Ralph Jordan, Miss Julia Alford and Mrs. W. J. McAllister, the latter of Pulaski.

On Novembe: 6 the Daughters will meet again in the home of Mrs. Dinsmore to sew all day for the mountain home to which they lend support. On November 21 the next regular meeting will take place in the home of Mrs. Carrie Bailey, Knox avenue, in the afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Relative to New Castle Perry Chapter progressive activities and members, it is worthy of note that Miss Helen Reed, of Sharon, holds a state office, being state chairman of patriotic education.

The chapter has an interested membership and this year will function under the following officers: Mrs. M. B. Dinsmore, president; Mrs. Nellie B. Brooks, first vice president; Mrs. Carrie Ailey, second vice president; Miss Virginia Weinschenk, third vice president; Helen F. Reed, fourth vice president; Mrs. Mary Wright Dean, recording secretary; Mrs. J. B. Waddington, corresponding secretary; Mrs. T. A. Pinkerton, treasurer; Mrs. A. T. Eckles, registrar; Mrs. E. F. Toepfer, chaplain; Mrs. Charles Greer, color bearer; Mrs. C. H. Luikart, musician.

Mrs. S. E. McCleary, who is 92 years of age, is the chapter's Real Daughter.

IN LOVE WITH "GRAIG'S WIFE"

It appears as though Harriet Craig is carrying on with a man. Yes— that's exactly what she's doing, but the man is her husband. A most interesting character, this Mrs. Craig—you'll find that out when you see Columbia's picturization of George Kelly's Pulitzer Prize play, "Craig's Wife," showing Today at the Regent Theatre. The title role is played by Rosalind Russell, and John Boles is Craig. Dorothy Arzner directed. Billie Burke and others are featured.

BIGGEST ISSUE IN ELECTION

WHEN the voters of America go to the polls in about two weeks to select the president of the United States; and hundreds of other officials, it is going to be the most significant and important election of many years in American history.

Standing out far and above every other consideration that has entered into the campaign is the fact that there is one big issue that takes precedence over all. That issue is between two philosophies of government, as exemplified by the two standard bearers seeking the presidency.

By our decision next month we are either going to depart farther and farther from the form of constitutional government we have known for a century and a half and be regimented under a highly centralized national government at Washington, or we are going to return to that form of government provided by the constitution which has served us so well in the past.

The issue is clear and outstanding. And all the red herrings drawn skilfully across the trail will not hide it, and should not detract our attention from it.

No one can overstate the importance of the decision we shall make in this election. Therefore it is well for the voters to consider thoroughly, honestly, prayerfully the real issue of the campaign. America is at the cross-roads.

Think well before you vote!

THE SWEET PERFUME OF THE ONION

Probably relying, from experience, upon the theory that a strong offense is the best defense, the simply styled National Committee to Lift the Onion Eater From the Category of Social Lepers is intent upon a program of aggressive education to make onion breath socially acceptable.

Suggestions for mouth-rinsing, after a garlic binge, are spurned as "subterfuges." The goal of the society, says its secretary, is to "educate the public to enjoy and preserve the onion aroma, which we feel is as pleasing as that of the rose—if you look at it right." The trouble, of course, is that many will stubbornly refuse to "look at it right."

The onion has its prideful place in the preparation of palate-pleasing dishes, but an onion-breath is still no open sesame to social success. Calling a scallion a honeysuckle won't give it the fragrance of a flower-garden.

ARE YOU A BUSINESS MAN?

Have you, by your own efforts, set up or managed a productive or distributive enterprise? Do you employ others to help you with it?

In short, are you a business man?

Then, according to Ralph Waldo Emerson, you are likely to be "one who has the just average of faculties we call common sense; a man of strong affinity for facts, who makes up his decisions on what he has seen," and who "is thoroughly persuaded of the truths of arithmetic."

But that is not what you are to President Roosevelt. To him you are a "money changer," an "economic royalist," a "prince of privilege." His general factotum and postmaster general, Jim Farley, taking the president's cue, calls you "an unprincipaled brigand," "a self-professed gangster." And Harold Ickes, the New Deal secretary of the interior, swells the chorus. You are, he says, "cold, heartless and exploiting." Nor is this all. For in the New Deal millennium foreseen and announced by the president's No. 1 brain truster, Rexford Guy Tugwell, you simply "will be required to disappear."

What is the matter with these New Dealers? Do they object to common sense? Are they indignant with facts? Do they actually hate a man who believes his own eyes and is "thoroughly persuaded of the truths of arithmetic"? It does seem so.—Chicago Daily News.

BELGIUM SERVES NOTICE

Pronouncement by the King of the Belgians that Belgium will face the future, come peace, come war, as a neutral, unbound and untrammeled by alliances, collectivist pacts or "Locarno" treaties, marks one more sensational development in Europe between wars."

Yet, now that the die has been cast, the only spectacular aspect about the decision is its sudden proclamation. The reasons behind it are not new. The Belgian military alliance with France might give Hitler Germany the shadow of an excuse to attack Belgium, more excuse than the Kaiser had in 1914. The French understanding with Russia might drag Belgium into a German-Russian war. The quarrels of Belgium's neighbors—among them the so-called Fascist-Communist cleavage—have tended to divide Belgians and weaken them as a nation.

If Europe is destined to be enveloped by a sudden war, no alliance with the French, no "Locarno" pact, no collectivist action of the League of Nations would shield Belgium from the first devastating blow, if any nation should use Belgium as a military thoroughfare. The Belgians, from this viewpoint, are just as well off without this "protection" as with it. And Belgium's slim chance of keeping out of Europe's next conflagration is somewhat improved by a complete absence of ties with neighboring nations and their diplomatic and military policies.

Belgium's ideal is to be another Netherlands or another Switzerland. If this is not possible, and the Belgians are doomed to another martyrdom instead, they will at least have the satisfaction of knowing that their own policy has not contributed to bringing it on. And, in facing their fate alone, they will be in a much stronger position to gain the sympathy of England or other nation's which are free both from Europe's entangling alliances and Europe's bitter antagonisms.

These considerations are the mainspring of Belgium's action. What effect the decision will have in France, where it will be regarded as base-ingratitude, or in Germany, where it will be viewed as a Hitler "victory," or on the general European situation, now in a state of dangerous and threatening flux, is likely to be an important footnote in the history of things to come.

You See In The Papers.

12 Ladies, Good And True.

Well Built Geese.

Beware Of Empty Leisure.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

WILL RODGERS, now represented on this earth only by a tall monument in the far West, used often to begin, "All I know is what I see in the papers." He would observe today that no one knows whither a new discovery will lead. The spectroscope revealed in the sun a new element, one more of the ninety-odd that make up the Universe. Because it was found in the sun, it was named helium, for the sun which the Greeks called helios.

The discovery, fortunate for Uncle Sam, since he possesses practically all the helium there is, supplies for dirigibles a non-explosive, non-inflammable gas that would make Uncle Sam king of the air, if he knew how to manage dirigibles. As it is, he contents himself watching Germany do with dangerous gas what he cannot do with safe helium.

Helium was expected only to carry passengers and other loads through the air, with occasional bombing and gassing as side lines in war. Now, Dr. Wilder, of the Mayo clinic, announces that helium is invaluable to patients in the last stage of asthma; three patients at the Mayo clinic were saved from death, by its use when no longer able to breathe normally, they could breathe comfortably, a mixture of two-thirds helium, one-third oxygen, helium being a gas so much lighter than air, with small molecules.

That discovery might be valuable to dirigible fliers at high altitude mixing their helium with oxygen, and breathing well, if the dirigible could rise high enough to make it worth while.

THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT takes over all private plants that make war planes, giving former owners one-third of the stock. Later it will take over all ammunition plants. That may seem a better idea than it is; the important thing, in war planes, guns and all war supplies is the new idea and governments, our own especially, are not particularly good at de-

ONCE

ONCE IS a dangerous word.
Be careful how you use it.
Take it easy.
Be sparing of sentences that start with "once."
Sentences like:
"Once I was young."
"Once I was happy."
"Once I was wealthy."
"Once I was full of energy."
"Once I had faith in people."
"Once I had ambition."
"Once I had illusions."
"Once I had money."
"Once I had what it takes."
Too many sentences that begin with "once" mean that you aren't what you used to be and never will be again.
Too many "onces" suggest that you have failed, given up, and know it.
"Once" is an admission that life has lost its savor, its glamor, its challenge.
"Once" looks back and any life worth living looks forward, looks back to check and compare, but only to prepare a take-off for the future.
"Once" gets you nowhere.
"Once" is a town you have passed.
"Once" is just a memory, a pleasant dream, a wistful longing.
"Once" is a soft bed, an easy chair, a cool drink, swimming in the creek, flirting with the girls, dancing till dawn, picking wild flowers in the meadow, wandering in the woods, following the circus parade, wasting your time, singing around the piano, getting out of scrapes, borrowing money from dad, asking mother to help you out, dancing to the tune and forgetting to pay the fiddler.
Just old Mr. Grasshopper dreaming in the winter of the joys of summer.
So watch yourself, Son.
Life shouldn't end before you're finished. And you are finished before you are dead.
Remember what I tell you and keep away from "once."
You got plenty o' time later on for that sweet and tricky word.
Time when you're old as the hills.
And your head ain't quite what it used to be.
Time when you've made a few records, won a few games, made a few dreams come true.
Time when you've done what you wanted to do, time when you've got where you hoped to go, when you have learned that fear is a faker and pessimism is false, and people are wiser and stronger than most of them think they are.
And till that time, Son, fight shy of that little word "once." I'm telling you it's nothing but a soft and easy trap. . . . Take my word for it.

Good Taste

WITH the ever-increasing popularity of motion pictures—perhaps our most important form amusement in future years—we must take certain facts into consideration. One is, that the so-called "legitimate" theater has the advantage over cinema in that the performers pause after mirth-provoking lines until the audience calms down.

Either movie directors do not allow sufficient time for the complete digestion of their "gags" or the audiences suffer from oversensitive risibilities, for many lines are lost during the deafening howls caused by over-appreciative moviegoers who delight in clever dialogue and who quite often have wined and dined too well.

Far be it from me to advise restraint of genuine mirth; but, nevertheless, I urge these howlers to have pity on others present who would like to hear all of the dialogue.

Let your joy be unrestrained but inaudible and less lengthy. Laugh during the allotted time and then compose yourself by the time the dialogue is resumed.

The World At A Glance

Lincoln Versus McClellan. Issue Hinged On War Topic. Was Vindication For Lincoln.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S campaign for re-election in 1864, during the Civil war, was full of partisanship attack.

His entire war administration had been subjected to the severest sort of criticism, even among strong supporters of the war.

Lincoln had been charged with overstepping his power — particularly in deporting to the south some of his severest critics. C. L. Vallandigham, Democratic leader in Ohio, a popular figure in rural regions as a protagonist against capitalism, was the chief of those deported—and Lincoln gain nothing by the effort. Vallandigham had asserted that the war was "a costly and bloody failure" and had charged Lincoln with producing a reign of oppression.

When it came time for re-election, the Republicans sought to strengthen the ticket among farmers by selecting as the vice presidential nominee, a similar anti-capitalist—Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee. Johnson, however, was a pro-Lincoln man—and, later, in his effort to carry out the Lincolnian policies was to meet disaster.

LINCOLN'S TROUBLES

Some of the troubles of Lincoln's administration and pre-election campaign are recounted by Professor Charles A. Beard in "The Rise of Ameriman Civilization":

"Nearly every action, civil or military, had to be taken with reference to politics. Fremont was given a high position in the army, not for his talents, but to satisfy the radical Republicans who had once voted for him. Battles were fought and blood was shed with relation to election returns . . .

"No matter what he did, Lincoln came under the censure of editors who had no respect for the bounds of propriety. On one occasion, a New York paper went so far as to inquire: "Mr. Lincoln, has he or has he not an interest in the profits of public contracts?' and then without giving any evidence, answered its own query in the affirmative.

"Members of his cabinet esteemed him lightly and thought themselves far wiser than he. One of them, Salmon P. Chase, secretary of the treasury, thought it not unworthy of his honor to carry on a lively backstairs campaign to wrest the presidency from Lincoln in 1864.

"Attacked on all sides, Lincoln held true to his central idea of saving the Union and when the end of his first term arrived the Republicans decided that they would not 'trade horses while crossing a stream'."

THE ELECTION

The Democrats nominated General McClellan of New York for president on a platform denouncing the war as a failure.

President Lincoln carried every state then in the Union except New Jersey, Delaware and Kentucky. He took the vote as a resounding endorsement of a war to victory.

The Republicans also elected enough representatives and senators to force congress to push through the resolution for the thirteenth amendment, abolishing slavery.

ABOLISHING SLAVERY

Abolition of slavery came gradually. Lincoln did not live to see the thirteenth amendment adopted by sufficient states to make it a law.

Professor Beard explains the gradual process:

"At the commencement of their administration in 1861, the Republicans were willing to guarantee slavery in the southern states if they would return to the Union.

"The war had been raging a year before congress attacked even the outworks of slavery. Not until April, 1862, did it begin to move by resolving to offer financial aid to any state that would start gradual emancipation. A few days later it abolished slavery in the District of Columbia.

"Within two months the tide rose higher. Summoning all its courage on June 19, congress fulfilled the Republican pledge by sweeping slavery from the territories forever. Lincoln had said that if the opportunity was given him he would strike at slavery in the territories in spite of the Dred Scott decision. Chief Justice Taney still lived; his solemn opinion stood unaltered in the law books; the letter of the constitution was unmodified; it was time, circumstance and sentiment that had changed.

"By these acts all the normal powers of congress over slavery under the constitution, even as construed by radical Republicans, were exhausted. Negro bondage stood unscathed in the states where it was lawful . . ."

EMANCIPATION—AT LAST!

Abolitionists condemned President Lincoln for hesitating to issue a proclamation of emancipation for the seceded states. Lincoln knew why he hesitated, if others did not

PROPAGANDA

"Propaganda" is a curious word. It was used originally to designate a society of Cardinals having the care and oversight of foreign missions instituted at Rome A. D. 1622. From this the word has become one to designate any systematic scheme to extend a doctrine or cause people to believe either Truth or Fiction, and it is usually Fiction.

The propaganda that Alfred Landon has an inferior personality; that his radio voice is very flat and that he has a very colorless personality illustrates the point. This is very insidious and it is amazing to find so many citizens falling for it. This is pure Fiction.

From Spain comes every day alleged news of the strife going on between the Communistic Government at Madrid and the alleged Rebels. Are the "Whites" Rebels? The word is used by the newspaper writers as though the "Reds" were entitled to the support of the world. Remember that the "Reds" had only been in power for a very short time when the followers of the old regime recovered their breath and began to fight back in order to recover that which had been stolen

Cornwallis outlived the humiliation of his surrender one of the greatest misfortunes ever to befall British arms. He personally opposed British's use of force in America, and accepted the command against the Revolutionists only because it was a soldier's duty. All the rest of his life was spent in endeavoring to subdue unwilling subjects of his king in India and Ireland.

Bette Davis Will Have To "Skimp" Along On $3,000

Motion Picture Star Refused Right To Break Contract With Warner Brothers

(International News Service)

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Maybe it's tough on Bette Davis to be a "slave"—as her attorney puts it—to a contract at $3,000 a week, but the contract, Justice Branson ruled today, is binding and Bette has to stick to it.

The justice accordingly granted Warner Brothers an injunction forbidding the fiery actress from working for any other company.

The injunction is "for the rest of the contract period, or for three years, whichever is the shorter period."

Bette therefore will have to eschew the bigger salary with which, it was alleged by an attorney who called her "a rather naughty young lady who wants more money," a British company enticed her from Hollywood to Elstree.

She was said to have been offered $50,000 to appear in one picture here, but her counsel said she sought to break the Warners' contract because she had been "required to dine with politicians".

HEROISM TALES RECOUNTED BY SHIP SURVIVORS

Merchant, Jack Meuse, deck engineer, and John Ideson, a deckhand.

Woman Among Dead

Among the dead was one woman, Mrs. Florence Drinkwater. She perished with her husband, First Mate Bernard Drinkwater, who had taken his wife along for "one last boat ride before the cold weather."

Captain McClelland, Dault and Ideson were picked up by the freighter Thunderbay Quarry, and the others by the Bessemer and Marquette car ferry, at 8 a. m. Sunday, ten hours after the Sand Merchant went down 18 miles off Cleveland harbor at the height of the bitter storm that lashed the lake.

During the long night that the two small lifeboats tossed and pitched in the waves, they drifted steadily towards shore and were only five miles from Cleveland when sighted and the men picked up.

His voice shaking as he told of the four members of the crew who "couldn't hold on any longer," and sank to their death before his eyes, Captain McClelland told how Dault and Ideson repeatedly pulled him back on the lifeboat when high waves washed him away.

"I owe my life to these two boys here," he said over and over.

Show Heroism

Dault and Ideson gave each other credit for heroism too. When the Sand Merchant went down and the suction capsized the two small crafts, husky 20-year-old Ideson pulled Dault out of the water onto the lifeboat.

Many hours later, just before the rescue, Dault kept young Ideson awake by 'abusing him and swearing at him" when the younger man became numb and started to go to sleep.

Meuse choked as he told how his two companion "Harold Cannon and Peter Daigle, firemen, called good bye to him, released their holds and sank after hours of clinging to the second lifeboat."

Meuse told of "kneeling in prayer on the deck of the Sand Merchant with Amos Dault, one of the three brothers" the only one of whom was to escape death. The other brother who died was Joseph Dault, pump engineer. All members of the crew were from Canada. The vessel which was carrying a load of sand from Point Pelee to Cleveland, was owned by the National Sand and Materials Company of Toronto, Ontario.

Worst Disaster Since 1930

The sinking of the Sand Merchant was the worst Lake Erie boat disaster since the sand dredge George J. Whelan went to the bottom on July 29, 1930, with a loss of fifteen lives.

The victims of the Sand Merchant besides the first mate and his wife, the two Dault brothers, Harry White, Daigle, and Cannon, were: Second Mate Wilfred Bourrie and his brother Daniel, wheelsman; Walter McGinnes, William Grant and Sandford Gray, engineers; Nicholas McCarthy and Roland Demille, oilers; Henry Lytle, and Frank Burns, cooks; Crane Operator Alphonse Robitaille and two firemen whose names had not been definitely established.

GOVERNOR LANDON STARTS JOURNEY TO WEST COAST

his campaign with a final address in St. Louis, October 31.

Challenges Statement

Aboard his train, Landon again challenged Roosevelt to announce whether he proposes to revive the NRA with or with submitting a constitutional amendment to the people. The fresh Landon challenge was provoked by a statement attributed to young James Roosevelt at Gardener, Mass., last Friday, that "the president intends to continue the principles of the NRA by going before the people and seeking an amendment to the constitution to make the principles of the NRA the law of the land."

While pointing out that the president's son has disputed the accuracy of this quotation Landon declared:

The president must specifically deny that his son's views are his views. Otherwise, the silence of the father will be the confession that the son spoke for the president when he gave us to understand that his father intended to perpetuate the NRA willy-nilly"

Landon first quoted the statement as attributed to young Roosevelt by the Worcester, Mass., Telegram. Then he quoted the account given of it by young Roosevelt, who contended he was expressing only his personal opion that a constitutional amendment would be sought to perpetuate the NRA.

Landon Gives His Position

"Without attempting to unravel Mr. James Roosevelt's constitutional theories, this much is clear in both statements," said Landon. "Young Roosevelt understands the president still intends to make NRA principles live and operate in our government by one device or another.

This is precisely what I have charged over and over again."

After repeating excerpts from his Portland, Me., and Detroit speeches, in which he charged the president with opposing individual enterprise and fostering an all-powerful federal government, Landon declared:

"I have declared that being elected, I shall immediately recommend to congress the repeal of all laws giving autocratic power to the president. I have made it plain that I stand for the maximum of individual liberty consistent with the welfare of all the people, but with no national economic planning that has the government dominating labor, industry and agriculture instead of exercising the normal governmental service of preventing unfair practices and oppressions among those activities of the people."

vaudeville entertainment. Singers, dancers and instrumentalists had their turn at entertaining the guests and at nine thirty Riggs and his fun makers bowed out.

Crawford Presides

Carl E. Crawford, who succeeded David S. Pyle as general superintendent of the Shenango Works acted as master of ceremonies for the more serious portion of the evening's program. In a brief introductory speech he presented the reasons for the meeting. "We are here to pay tribute to one of New Castle's foremost citizens," said Mr. Crawford. "David S. Pyle has given himself to this community and to his work for the past forty years. Tonight those of us who have the privilege of working with him are gathered to attest to the esteem in which he has been held.

Ray Saylor, assistant manager of operations for the Pittsburgh district was the first speaker introduced. "David Pyle has been one of the foremost tin mill operators in the world," said Mr. Saylor. "We know him for what he is and has been, and now after a busy life he is retiring to private life where he will enjoy the rest he has so richly earned. All of us wish him many years in which to enjoy his retirement from active life."

A. E. Logan, of Pittsburgh, manager of the safety and welfare division of the corporation was the next speaker. "I have been associated with Mr. Pyle for the past twenty five years," said he. "I am happy to be here tonight and add my own commendation to this wonderful gathering."

R. E. Sturdy Speaks

R. E. Sturdy, general superintendent of the New Castle Works was the next introduced. "This is a wonderful evening," said Mr. Sturdy. "It gives all of us an opportunity to say publicly what we have felt privately for many years. He has been a man among men, a leader who got results by leading rather than driving, and not a one of us but will miss him in the work of manufacturing tin plate."

John Wangeman, assistant manager of the order department of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation was introduced and spoke briefly. "George S. Kenks, the manager of our department is unable to be here tonight," said Mr. Wangemen, "and so he has asked me to convey his regrets at his inability to attend and also to express publicly the high regard in which he has held Mr. Pyle. For myself I want to say that my association with Mr. Pyle has always been a matter of pleasure to me."

A. E. Piper, retired tin plate inspector, now of Niles, O., expressed his pleasure at being present and C. A. Ferguson, general superintendent of the Farrell plant brought greetings from his organization.

Fred L. Rentz

Fred L. Rentz, president of The News was the only speaker who was not connected directly with the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation. "Mr. Pyle and I were boys together," said Mr. Rentz. "I have known him as a boy, as a young man and as an outstanding citizen of New Castle. I have always been proud of the fact that he has called me his friend. He has been an influence for good in this community and has meant a great deal to this city through his management of the tin mills here."

"He is being succeeded by two fine gentlemen and for these men, Mr. Crawford and Mr. Sturdy, I bespeak your finest co-operation. You have stood by Mr. Pyle, now I ask you to do the same thing for his successors."

Remembrance Presented

Harry Jones, chairman of the Employes Representative Association, New Castle Works spoke for the employes of that plant and Harry Davies, chairman of the Shenango Works Employes Representative Association spoke for his fellow workers. At the conclusion of his address Mr. Davies presented Mr. Pyle with a beautiful platinum wrist watch as a tangible expression of the esteem of the men and women of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation.

Mr. Pyle's reply was brief. Words could not add to the depth of feeling he exhibited. He reminded the men and women present of some of the earlier days of the mill, thanked them for their co-operation in working out problems together and finished by saying, "this is not farewell, it is just so long."

"Following the formal program, dancing was enjoyed in the ball room of the Cathedral.

COMMUNISTS PLAN POLITICAL RALLY

William M. Gebert, labor leader of New York, and Thomas Myerscough will address a public meeting in the Lawrence county court house on Thursday night, October 22, it was announced today by local officers of the Communist party.

PRESIDENT BACK IN WASHINGTON FOR BRIEF STAY

speak at more than a dozen cities in Rhode Island, Massachusettes and Connecticutt, where Republican leaders are counting on a heavy vote for Gov. Alfred M. Landon.

Leaving Washington Tuesday night, the President will spend Wednesday and Thursday continuously on the move and show himself to many thousands of voters, in the hope of winning them over to the New Deal.

His major New England address, which will be broadcast throughout the nation, will be delivered Wednesday night at Worcester, Mass. The President said he would discuss the same issues he stressed during his 5,000-mile swing through 10 western states.

May Revisit Pennsylvania

After this foray into admittedly doubtful territory, the President is likely to revisit Pennsylvania during the final week of the campaign and speak at Harrisburg on the New Deal's labor record.

His only definite engagements for the wind-up week are both in New York City. He will take part in exercises on October 28 commemorating the gift of the Statue of Liberty by France to the United States and close his campaign on October 31, the Saturday night before election, at a rally in Madison Square Garden. Sometime between these two dates the President may make an appearance in Brooklyn.

At his White House office today the President will tackle a mass of accumulated mail and call in Secretary of State Hull and other cabinet officers for brief conferences.

He has refused to make any other appointments.

MADRID FORCES HURLED BACK BY REBEL OFFENSIVE

ward, and the minister of the interior issued a proclamation ordering every militiaman to report at once for active service, or risk "severe punishment".

Apparently Madrid had expected the principal drive towards the capital from the west, where the rebels had steadily been battling towards Navalcarnero.

Unexpected Advance.

But unexpectedly the Toledo column began moving forward, and before aid for the loyalists in the Olias Del Rey sector could be summoned, the line rolled ten miles, under the bombardment and machine-gun fire of big foreign planes, past Olias, over the plain beyond Yumcos, and then past Illescas.

There the loyalists made a stiff stand, but were turned back three more miles to the village of Ugena, losing more than 100 men slain. The loyalists are now digging in at Torrijon, only 16 miles from Madrid.

The most damaging blow Madrid has yet suffered, however, was the capture of Algodor and Castillejos, junction points of the last railroad linking Madrid and the sea. This chokes off Madrid's chief source of food, for the northern railroad thru Sigienza had been cut two weeks ago. Food is scarce in the capital, and is now being rationed. The sparse supplies are now being brought in over highways from the southeast.

Main Loyalist Defense.

Navas Del Rey, southeast of Navalcarnero, was the site of the main loyalist defense. They held Navas, but the rebels, killing more than 100 leftists, took Robledo, and now the Madrid troops at Navas are all but encircled.

Throughout rebel territory there was tremendous rejoicing at the smashing drive of the Toledo column, only 3000 strong, and at the relief of Oviedo. Gen. Francisco Franco, head of the "national" government, telegraphed his thanks to Col. Leon Aranda, commander of the rescue column at Oviedo.

It was reported here, however, that of the garrison of 3000 that was besieged for three months—Oviedo, only 1000 were left alive to greet their rescuers.

Throw Up Defenses.

Madrid, Oct. 19.—Imminence of fighting on the borders of Madrid became evident today when "white-collar" workers and all other able males were ordered to lend a hand in digging trenches and erecting barbed-wire entanglements.

The government instructed employers to dispatch their workers to the city's fortifications each afternoon at quitting time. Political and labor organizations and newspapers minced no words in telling residents of the capital what is expected of them.

Democratic Women Meet This Evening

At eight o'clock this evening in the court house, a mass meeting sponsored by the Democratic women of Lawrence county will be held. Three speakers are listed, Bessie Kansack, deputy attorney-general, Emma Guffey Miller and Tad Shields. The meeting is in charge of Mrs. Agnes B. Howley, local president.

May Be Entitled To Police Pension

Health Officer's Request Focuses Council's Attention On Pensions

Not long ago council adopted a bill which, when passed, provided pensions for members of the city police department. During council meeting today, Dr. William L. Steen, city health officer, requested that he be placed under the provisions of the act. Under law, he is a "policeman", is was later said.

Council took no formal action on the health officer's request today. However, it was indicated that when his status is considered it is also likely that the status of Chauncey Davis, sanitary policeman; Miss Marjorie Davis, clerk in the police department, and also the janitor at the police station will be considered.

Under the law there is provided, according to city hall attaches, that persons employed in the police department shall be entitled to pensions. Some of them have not taken civil service examinations. As yet all the points involved have not been made known known but are likely to be developed when employes' status is brought before council.

MEDICAL WORLD IS ASTOUNDED

Find Case Of Where Man's Heart Beat For 18 Hours After He Was Dead

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The rare case of a man murdered with an axe, yet whose heart kept on beating for 18 hours after he was pronounced dead, was revealed today in a scientific exhibit at the New York Academy of Medicine

Taken from the official files of the New York medical examiner's office, the photograph of the victim forms a part of a pictorial display of various types of gunshot and knife wounds.

Beats 18 Hours

"Right auricle of heart found beating 18 hours after death," is the laconic report appended to the exhibit by Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales, chief medical examiner.

The case, in which the left side of the man's neck had been severed, was studied by Dr. Gonzales' predecessor, the late Dr. Charles Norris, it was learned, but the unusual phenomenon was not reported before. Although rigor mortis had set in, according to aides of the medical examiner, the heart muscle remained alive.

Physicians from 10 states are viewing these and other exhibits at the academy, displayed in connection with the medical society's annual two weeks of "post-graduate lectures and hospital demonstrations.

Every doctor prefers dumb patients. It's hard to cure a smart one who knows too much to have faith.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Randomusing: New York is the hamlet that's swarming with "Hamlets" . . . Leslie Howard has hung out his Shakespearean shingle in one theater and the English marvel, John Gielgud, is holding forth in another. . . . A pert debbie, attending the Gielgud interpretation the other night, quipped in the lobby: "But how can anyone listen to all those old saws and ancient wisecracks they've been hearing all their lives?" . . . . Well, a lot of people go to Shakespeare to recognize the quotations. . . .

And speaking of Shakespeare, Miss Sylvia Beach, the owner of the Paris bookstore, Shakespeare & Co., to which American tourists repaired for years for copies of the banned "Ulysses," sailed on the Normandie the other night. . . . Her visit to the United States, the first in twenty-one years was brief. . . . She told questioners that she found the land "unchanged." . . . For some reason there is an element of sadness in that statement. . . . Unchanged after twenty-one years! . . . I wonder whether Miss Beach remembers the America of 1915. . . .

But I met Sylvia Beach a long time ago in her little twilit bookshop in the rue de l'Odeon. . . . She was a prim, neat lady with bobbed graying hair and she wore, unless I disremember, sandals. . . . It chanced that the great Joyce, forbidding in his dark glasses over weak eyes, was there too—he spent most of his time there when in Paris. . . . I gaped, bought my copy of the scandalous "Ulysses"—and departed. . . . Only to leave the book on a dresser in a hotel room in Munich. . . . I didn't read it until years later; until it was too late for me to get a wallop out of any book simply because it was banned, although I did get a wallop out of much of "Ulysses"—grand, stirring, poetic stuff, destined to influence the writing of a quarter-century. . . .

Miss Beach, by the way, was the daughter of a Princeton, N. J., Presbyterian minister. . . . Her father buried Woodrow Wilson and Miss Beach, I think, buried a decade. . . .

So many contests blaring over the radio, glaring from posters and newspaper headlines. . . . Such rich prizes, too, for apparently so little work and skill. . . . All my life I have been meaning to enter one of those $10,000 prize jousts but somehow have never got around to it. . . . I was stirred again by encounter with the fifteen-year-old son of a friend who has won $116 in cash, a wrist watch, a set of aluminum cooking utensils and a large image of Mickey Mouse in the last two years by indefatiguable competition in all the bigger contests. . . .

But Charles Dana Gibson probably did more to fasten America's attention on prize tilts than anyone else—and he did it with an acidulous and neatly aimed bit of repartee. . . . Around 1910, it was. . . . A manufacturer of automobiles was offering a rich prize for the best drawing and invited Gibson to compete. . . . The rules were set forth as follows: "The drawing, if accepted, will win a cash prize; if rejected it becomes the property of the company." . . . Gibson promptly declared that he was running a competition for automobiles, inviting manufacturers to submit samples. . . . "The automobile, if accepted, will win a cash award; if rejected it becomes my property." . . . The nation howled. . . . Fairfax Downey's new book about Gibson and his era is full of similar pungent anecdote and is interesting to all those who, like Miss Beach, may think America "unchanged" in the last quarter century.

Artists Placing Finishing Touches On Japanese Sets

Bright Scenery For "The Mikado" Being Constructed At Cathedral

Backstage at the Cathedral the brilliant Japanese sets for "The Mikado" are being completed by Fulton Magill and James R. Green.

These talented young artists have made a study of Japanese designs and the scenery for the Gilbert and Sullivan opera promises to be the best ever seen here. Infinite patience with details characterizes the work of both the men.

"The Mikado" is to be presented Wednesday and Thursday nights of this week at the Cathedral under the sponsorship of the Y. W. C. A. A school children's matinee will be presented Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Roy Long, chairman of the ticket sale, announces that a very fine response has been shown by the ticket reservations at Fleming's music store, but since the Y. W. C. A. is giving "The Mikado" two nights and a matinee this year, there are still many good seats at all three prices for either night.

W. W. Campbell and Prof. A. T. Cordray, of New Wilmington, are the directors. Rehearsals have been coming along fine and the cast is just about ready for the performances.

In order that the terrible consequences of drunken driving might be brought more forcibly to eleven persons convicted in the Allegheny county courts, they were taken to the county morgue, where they where shown the bodies of eleven victims of auto accidents. Standing in the presence of death they were required to take a pledge never again to drink any intoxicating liquor when about to drive a motor vehicle. They were all given prison sentences.

Inmates at the county home report that they can sleep better since the bunch of roughnecks who have been raising whoopee have been lodged in the county jail.

While national issues are dominant in the political campaign Republican leaders are active in the drive to retain control of the State Senate and regain control of the House of Representatives. As the General Assembly was constituted in the 1936 special session, the Democrats controlled the House with 118 of the 208 members, while the Republicans commanded the senate with 29 of the fifty votes.

With half of the Senate's membership at stake this year, the Republican task of maintaining control of the branch is, in some respects, more difficult than gaining control of the House of Representatives. Of the twenty-five Senate seats to be filled in November 20, are now held by Republicans while only 5 Democratic seats are at issue. This means that, for the 1937 session, the Democrats have a 16 to 5 advantage as they go into the senatorial elections. To retain control of the Senate the Republicans must win 17 of the 25 contested seats, while the Democrats can gain control by winning only 10.

In the fight for control of the House of Representatives the rival political parties start from scratch with all of the 208 seats in the balance on November 3. Control goes to the party that can elect at least 105 members. Because of political trends which have set in since 1934 Republicans believe that the statewide situation is such that they will be able to gain a majority in the House, while carrying the state for Landon for president, and the state ticket. Frank L. Pinola for state treasurer and E. Arthur Sweeny for auditor general.

Votes Illegally For 37 Years, To Become Citizen

Pittsburgh Man Finds That After 37 Years He Is Not Naturalized Citizen

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 19—For 36 years Julius Braum, 57, exercised all the rights of an American citizen, including the all-important one of voting.

Today, it was revealed he had on file an application for citizenship.

Father of 12 children born here, Braum discovered one day he was not the full-fledged citizen he believed himself to be. Braum explained he was under the impression he was automatically naturalized when his father took the oath of allegiance in 1900.

Recently he learned he was over 21 years of age when his father was admitted and therefore not a bonafide citizen.

Under an act of congress in 1906—which states that a person who has exercised the rights of a citizen for many years and later learns that he was mistaken—Braum may become a citizen in 90 days.

The loser in any public quarrel is the one who has the most reputation to lose.

Bombers Face Long Sentences

Two Men Are Convicted Of Bombing Auto Of Judge Valentine At Wilkes-Barre

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 19—Found guilty on two of five counts, Emerson P. Jennings, and Charles Harris today each faced sentence of 10 to 20 years imprisonment and a continued fight for vindication of the bombing of Judge W. A. Valentine's automobile here in 1935.

A verdict returned Sunday by a jury which had deliberated 13 hours held Jennings, a local printer and civic leader, and his Scranton co-defendant responsible for the bombing that almost maimed or killed Mary Valentine, the jurist's daughter.

Still insisting his clients had been "framed," Arthur Garfield Hays, American civil liberties union counsel and attorney for the defense announced he would seek a new trial. Each count of the conviction carries penalties of five to 10 years imprisonment.

Meantime, friends of Jennings and Harris struggled to raise $15,000 bail for each of the defendants. The amount, matching that under which they had previously been at liberty, was fixed by Judge Samuel E. Shull, Monroe jurist specially presiding.

AUTO DAMAGE CASE TAKEN UP AT COURT

The case of Mike Piskorz against Louis C. Mather in which the plaintiff is seeking damages from the defendant as a result of automobile accident, was taken up for trial before Judge W. Walter Braham at court this morning. Piskorz claims that he had stopped to repair his car on Route 422, near the Vance farm about five miles from this city, when Mather, driving in a southerly direction, struck him. Piskorz claims that he was laid up for some time as a result of his injuries. Mather claims it was an unavoidable accident.

Claim Big Importation Of "Mattress" Voters In City Of Boston

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Charging there has been widespread flouting of registration laws, importation of "mattress voters" and "subsidy of persons willing to barter away their votes," Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., director of the eastern division of the Republican National Committee, today announced he had asked Charles Francis Coe, criminologist, to head a large body of vigilantes "in the interest of fair play."

"We have had complaints that there are at least 5,000 illegally registered voters in one Boston ward," Martin said.

"We have had complaints that in Boston there is evidence to show voters are registered in three different places.

"We have had complaints that there are 800 'mattress voters' in one Boston hotel, in the north end section.

INQUIRE INTO STUCKI DEATH

the road and the right rear wheel was on the highway, the car standing in a diagonal direction, pointed towards Harlansburg.

The other car was over in the field, its head pointed toward the road, about 15 feet off the highway. He did not go to the Stucki car but helped Mr. and Mrs. Williams into a coupe which came along. A delivery truck came on the scene then and he got into it with one of the children and went to the New Castle hospital.

The road at this point is level and straight, the witness stated, and it was a clear dry day.

W. C. Moore, who resides near the scene of the collision, stated that he was driving east on the road and came upon the scene just after the collision had occurred.

After the cars had started to town with the members of the Williams family he went to the other car and saw a man sitting in it just starting to slump forward. He tried to get the door open to get him out, but the running board had been bent up in front of the door and he was unable to open it. He went to the Robinson home to get a sledge and when he returned others had opened the car and gotten Mr. Stucki out. He helped put him into an ambulance and went to the hospital along.

Patrolman Testifies

Moore stated there was a bad spot in the road at this point where the road is slightly heaved up in the center, or crowned high, and that it causes automobiles to swerve.

State Highway Patrolman D. L. Holmes told of being summoned to the scene of the collision about 11:55 a. m., on October 1. When he got there the injured people had been removed.

He saw a Buick and a Ford car, the Buick sitting diagonally off the road, with one front wheel in the ditch and one rear wheel just on the highway. There were marks on the highway which extended parallel up the road and then curved into the ditch, which had evidently been made by the Williams car. They were on the left side of the center of the highway, Patrolman Holmes stated. The other car was in a field to the left of the road, 17 feet off the highway. Both cars were damaged about the left front end.

He had the cars taken to a garage and went to the hospital, where he interviewed Mr. and Mrs. Williams. He said Mrs. Williams admitted driving the car, but did not know what caused the collision.

He stated that Mrs. Williams had no driver's license or learner's permit.

Kenneth Williams stated that they had left his home in Scotland Lane to go to his mother's home on Croton avenue. There was a slight miss in the car and he decided to drive on out the road to see if it would work out. After they had crossed the North street bridge onto Croton avenue, Mrs. Williams took the wheel.,

They drove on out the road and were going at a speed not over 35 miles per hour, he stated. They had passed the little mission on the right side of the road and he happened to glance out the window and saw the headlights and radiator of a car right in front of them. He said he was holding the baby and pushed it down under the dash. He remembered nothing more. He claimed he had been watching the road but couldn't recall which side of the road they were on. He was positive that the tires did not blow out. He was not rendered unconscious, but his mind was hazy about what happened after the collision, he said.

Mrs. Williams admitted that she had been driving the car. She said she was positive she had been driving on the right hand side of the road. There was nothing to interfere with her vision, but she could not remember having seen the Stucki car at all.

She said she had never had a driver's license or learner's permit. They had only had the car about a month she said, as the first payment was not due yet.

The members of the Williams family who had been taken to local hospitals following the crash, were able to leave the institution about a week ago.

An information charging Mrs. Williams with driving an automobile without a driver's license had been made before Justice of the Peace Arthur Kimmell, of the East Brook road, by Patrolman Holmes. She pleaded guilty to the charge last week and was assessed a fine and costs which amounted to $12.25.

SMALL GIRL LOST; IN POLICE CARE

Her face stained with tears and her voice with sobs a small girl, probably three years old, it at police headquarters—yes, crying piteously for her ma ma "who is down town."

The girl, who has blond hair, brown eyes, a lavender dress, yellow socks, black shoes and a white coat was turned over to police in the 500 block of East Washington street at 11:15 a. m.

POLO GAME POSTPONED

Due to the condition of Troop F.field, West Washington street extension, yesterday's polo game between Troop F. and Akron Cowboys was postponed until a later date.

ROOSEVELT Soaks the Poor

Franklin D. Roosevelt once said, "Taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors . . . If excessive, they are reflected in idle factories, tax sold farms . . . Our workers may never see a tax bill, but they pay in deductions from wages, in increased cost of what they buy or (as now) in broad cessation of employment . . . Our people and our business cannot carry its excessive burdens of taxation. . . "

Rich Man's Burden:		Poor Man's Burden:
68.2% In 1930 the rich, through their income taxes, paid 68.2% of the cost of government.	1930	31.8% That year the rest of us, through consumers' taxes, paid 31.8%.
38.7% Last year the rich paid 38.7% of the cost of government through income taxes.	1935	61.3% The rest of us shouldered 61.3% of the burden.

Any PRACTICAL POLITICIAN admits the cleverness and effectiveness, as a vote-getting measure, of Candidate Roosevelt's attempt to set class against class in this country. Every person interested in the welfare of AMERICA deplores these tactics and would rather they be left in RED RUSSIA, COMMUNIST MEXICO or RUINED SPAIN.

Name Burton To Civil Service Police Board

Professor Frank L. Burton was elected by council as a member of the civil service board for police, when solons met in city hall, today.

His recommendation was offered by Mayor. Charles E. McGrath. Councilman Joseph D. Alexander submitted the motion which passed unanimously. The other members of the police board of examiners are Harry Dinsmore and Dr. James D. Crawford. Burton replaces George E. Lyon who resigned on account of business reasons.

The appointment today was made owing to the desire of Mayor Charles E. McGrath to have a temporary policeman added permanently to the police department. After the election the policeman will be sent to the Hershey school of the State police where four men, Messrs. Sigler, Williams, Price and Tewell now are undergoing training. These men will return soon and probably take over police patrols here November 1.

John Davis May Remodel Garage Under Certain Conditions Imposed

John Davis, Scioto street, during council meeting at city hall today presented a petition, in which he sought permission to remodel a garage in Scioto street. He declared the garage, which will be remodelled will contain tin sheeting both inside and outside. Fire Chief A. P. McIlwaine said he had made an inspection, and added that, providing the plans for remodelling are carried out he would approve the recommendation. Construction will proceed with the fire chief seeing that the plans are carried out, else work must stop.

Mrs. Elizabeth Moore Is 95 Years Old Today

Governor Alfred M. Landon has a staunch supporter in Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Moore of the Harlansburg road, who is today quietly observing her 95 birthday.

Mrs. Moore is the lady who sent a basket of sunflowers to New Castle when Mr. Landon was a guest at The Castleton. She has a large photograph of the Kansan in a prominent place at her home and her parting injunction to each one of her many visitors today is to "vote Republican."

Mrs. Moore was born in County Down, Ireland, came to America in 1866, and two years later had settled on the farm where she has resided ever since.

She had eleven children, six of whom are living. Two of her daughters, Mary and Elizabeth, are at home. She has fourteen grandchildren and twenty-one great-grandchildren.

She is in excellent health, except for a slight cold, and is very active mentally, keeping right up to the affairs of the day.

Girl Reporter On Ocean Hop From Manila

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN
International News Service and New York Evening Journal Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1936, by International News Service and New York Evening Journal)

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 19.—To the other doubtful distinctions I have won on my hectic trip around the world, I'll soon add that of being the most popular girl on Wake and Midway Islands.

I'm not worried about the competition, for I'll be the only girl there!

I'm already getting jesting complaints from the 17 men with whom I'll take off in the China clipper for California tomorrow morning over spoiling the Eveless Eden they enjoyed on their western voyage.

This doesn't worry me, either. I'd wreck 10 Eveless Edens, if necessary, to get aboard that clipper and be off across the ocean.

My fellow globe-girdler, Leo Kieran, and I have been stranded here for four days while the China clipper was held up at Guam by a typhoon dispatched to these western islands by the society for the prevention of girl 'round-the-world racers.

At last we are set for the 8,000-mile hop across the Pacific to the Golden Gate. The clipper is scheduled to take off at two o'clock tomorrow morning (early Monday to you on the other side of the international date line), with Kieran, myself and W. W. Chaplin of International News Service and the eight other newspapermen who crossed the ocean on the clipper's special preview passenger flight.

SENATOR DAVIS SCORES HOPKINS

Accuses WPA Administrator Of Being Very Good "Dodger"

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 19.—Harry L. Hopkins, federal WPA administrator, is accused of being "a dodger, hiding behind a loud speaker," in a letter sent him by U. S. Senator James J. Davis, and released here today.

The letter, said by the Allegheny County Republican Committee to be Davis' answer to a radio address made by Hopkins Saturday, stated, in part:

"Every well-informed voter in the country knows that you have been challenged to open up your records to senate investigating committees, and although the two committees available to you are dominated by Democratic majorities, you are afraid to open your books. Knowing that your administration needs a thorough purging, you dodge the issue by hiding behind a loud speaker."

—many of his leading commanders, such as McClellan, were opposed to a war on slavery.

When, however, McClellan stopped Lee's forces at Antietam, Lincoln issued an emancipation document (Sept. 23, 1862), setting forth that unless the Confederate states returned to the Union by the first of the following January, all the slaves in every place under arms against the federal government would be given their liberty.

The Confederate states of course ignored Lincoln's appeal — whereupon, on Jan. 1, 1863, he issued his proclamation of emancipation. It was of doubtful constitutionality. It could not be upheld in peace time without military force.

Lincoln, realizing this, thereupon urged the thirteenth amendment. And only by gaining a congress favorable to this, in the November, 1864 election, was he able to put this resolution through. It was sent to the states for ratification in January, 1865.

Ratification by three-fourths of the states was another matter. In the north, the federal government traded federal patronage for Democratic votes. And other concessions were made to northern capitalists. In the south, when the Confederacy collapsed, military pressure was used.

The thirteenth amendment finally was ratified on Dec. 18, 1865.

LINCOLN SHOT

In the meantime, President Lincoln had been shot at Ford's theater, in Washington, by John Wilkes Booth, a half-crazed actor and southern enthusiasist on the night of April 14, 1865. The president had died the following day—six days after General Lee's surrender to General Grant, at Appomatox, Va.

And Andrew Johnson, the agragian from Tennessee, stepped into the presidency, and the troubles of reconstruction, a shameful period in American history, began.

veloping such ideas, or recognizing them, at sight. The Lewis gun, and the Wright Brothers had to go to Europe for encouragement. It was not any government that developed submarines, nitro glycerine, range finders, machine guns or airplanes.

THE STRANGELY DIFFERENT uses of nitro glycerine would appeal to Rogers' philosophical mind; it makes mining easy, blows soldiers into a better world, supplies the human race with a new power source, blasts stumps for the farmer, cracks the soil, hastening the growth of young fruit trees, when used at their planting and doctors order elderly gentlemen with doubtful hearts to sarry small nitro glycerine pellets in their waist coat, with orders "put one under your tongue, the moment you feel a sharp pain."

Also, the inventor and philanthropist, Nobel, whose great fortune from nitro glycerine, left it all to encourage literature, perhaps peace itself, may come of an invention used primarily for killing.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in history, New Jersey, selecting a jury all women has surprised some, annoyed others. Why? For ages women have been judged and sentenced by individual men or groups of men. They have been ducked, branded with hot irons, put in the stocks, beheaded, hanged, burned alive.

Is there injustice in turning the thing around for a change? At least no 12 women would burn or duck anybody.

THIRTY-EIGHT Canadian snow geense prove that nature has given them a rugged build, of which even a modern automobile might be proud. The 38, as unconscious of their danger as Europe at the moment is of her war danger, paddled over the edge of Niagara Falls, and all went down together 158 feet, over the Horseshoe, through the boiling, roaring water, into the Niagara Gorge.

William Hull pulled them out, fed them milk and corn, they will fly south wiser. A thousand other wild geese, warned of their fate, rose from the dangerous river in time. One thousand million human geese ought to be warned by the last war, but will not.

DR. JAY B. NASH, OF NEW York's University, tells 1,000 nurses that mental health calls for work; plenty of it. "Empty leisure" is a danger, says the learned Dr. Nash and "it takes a highly intellectual individual to enjoy leisure." He suggests that a majority of us, if wise, will not decide too rapidly that we are "highly intellectual."

Mental ill-health that results from "empty leisure" is the most serious menace in our "10,000,000 idle" problem.

VARIOUS AMERICANS have benevolent plans for "reciprocal treaties" to promote world trade, and the world is delighted, knowing that the benevolent American plans will mean selling more goods to the United States, but without buying any more goods from the United States. We have already our first adverse export condition in years.

from them.—This is Communistic Fiction.

From Moscow there emanates constantly propaganda. Part of it is believed and at the rest the world laughs. Stalin holds a Review of Troops every whipstitch in the Capital and it is reported that there were a million troops in line! The world reads of the thousands of airplanes and of the wealth of munitions possessed by the Soviets—just propaganda.

Now comes the crowning bit of news from the Kremlin. Russia is building the greatest Navy in the world! Where is Russia building it? 'Tis said that one fleet is to be built on the Baltic; another on the Pacific; a third on the Black Sea; a fourth and fifth on the Caspean and White Seas. Think of that! The Five Year Plan is nothing compared to what this great fleet will be.

In the words of the official organ of Stalin, the "Prarda", "Russia will continue to strengthen its sea borders and create a powerful workers' and peasants' fleet that will reach the level of all other armed forces."

Strange how the world falls for this propaganda.

Yes, "propaganda" indicates the work of Missionaries.

Sharon Woman Injured As Both Machines Are Overturned

OTHER ACCIDENTS OVER WEEK END

Truck loaded with apples and driven by William Jennings, 1903 Pike street, Pittsburgh, and an auto operated by Mary Carney, 547 Lafayette street, Sharon, were ditched at two p. m. Sunday near Walmo, New Wilmington highway. The woman received several facial cuts.

According to Highway Patrolman Holmes, the truck and car were being operated toward New Castle. The woman attempted to drive past the truck, got off the road, steered the machine back to the pavement, but it leaped across the road in front of the truck, both vehicles upsetting, the officer said.

Joseph Greenwalt and G. E. Riddle, the former of Grove City and the later of Volant, are held pending further action by Highway Patrolman Holmes. He claims a car driven by one of the men sideswiped a car in New Wilmington and figured in a crash at Grant and North Jefferson streets here at 8:30 p. m. Sunday.

When the auto driven Saturday night by H. Fishkorn of Norwalk O., skidded on Stevenson bend, Youngstown road, the car upset without injury to the driver, according to Holmes.

Women Enthusiastic For Governor Landon

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—If Alfred M. Landon carries Pennsylvania in November his success in no small part will be due to the work of woman campaigners, Mrs. Marjorie Worthington Scranton, Republican national committeewoman, predicted.

Mrs. Scranton descried the women workers as bearing a large share of the pre-election burden.

"Five of us have just toured the state and we never found the women more aroused than they are now" she revealed. "I have also been in 16 other states since the Republican convention, and the same conditions seem to prevail in them. The women have a first class chance of swinging the election for Mr. Landon."

The number of young women holding important posts on GOP committees was viewed by Mrs. Scranton as "a good sign".

Farley's Prediction Is For "Landslide"

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—After accompanying President Roosevelt on his campaign tour in western states, Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley was back here today with the prediction that the president's re-election victory in November would "reach landslide proportions."

Farley declared that the president would carry Kansas, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, New York and Pennsylvania, and said he was also confident of winning the electoral votes of Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Dakotas. The Republicans, Farley also said, would "get the surprise of their lives" in New England, New Jersey and Delaware.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

WHEN NOT TO SPANK

As regular readers of my column know I frequently have urged parents to use physical pain in teaching the toddler to avoid constant, known specific hazards, such as running into the street. To quote from my booklet, "Training the Toddler in Safety." The moment he steps down off the curb seize him bodily. Don't merely pull him back. Seize him, and right then and there bare his bottom and give him several good, lusty slaps low on his fat thighs with your bare flat hand. Make it hurt. Say 'NO' just once and in a natural tone. Bear in mind that your mission is not to restrain him but to teach him to restrain himself."

"But there are temporary and unexpected hazards which the child will meet only once, or perhaps a few times during his childhood. If he has been tanght basic safety, training he will be as we have pointed out, better equipped to meet these. But it may be of no value to spank him by way of training him against the specific danger which he may never encounter again.

"For example, if a child gets his hands on a sharp instument a bread knife of the scissors, there is no point in spanking him to teach him not to touch them again. Ordinarily they are not left lying around, and he may never get an opportunity to handle that specific danger again, or if he does it may be so long afterwards, that the memory of the first spank is lost. And if he should remember it he might run next time—with dire results!

Picks Things From Floor

"As soon as the child begins to creep he will pick up things off the floor, pins, splinters, anything and want to put them into his mouth. Now you can rarely be on hand at the psychological moment to administer the sharp slap. Nor will you be able to apply pain for every single offense, without exception, over the training period. Moreover, each instance will be in the child's consciousness, a different situation.

"A practical objection to the spank in such cases also offers itself. If the child thinks you are going to wrench the pin or sharp instrument from him he may swallow the one or spasmodically stab himself with the other.

"It requires infinite time, patience and resourcefulness to meet this problem of babyhood. Here is the time for calm and gentle persuasive talking. Make it interesting to him. Get him to co-operate with you. Often you can spirit away the dangerous object by slipping a safe toy in the empty hand.

QUAKE TAKES TOLL IN NORTHEASTERN ITALY

Venice Feels Shock Effect

Death Toll Is Increased To 23; More Than 100 Injured

TOWER COLLAPSES; FIFTEEN ARE KILLED

(International News Service)

VENICE, Italy, Oct. 19.—Rescuers digging in the debris of a shattered house at Tolcenito today found the bodies of three children—bringing the known death toll in the earthquake that twice shook northeastern Italy and part of Austria and Yugoslavia to 23. More than 100 were injured.

Minor quakes continued today in a 50-mile radius around Venice, keeping the populace in a state of terror, but the shocks were too weak to cause any more damage.

A violent downpour and cold winds added to the misery of hundreds of homeless, but in spite of the rain, many villagers refused to seek shelter in buildings.

Numerous Landslides

Numerous landslides added to the damage from the temblors.

Houses shook and huge waves from Venice's canals slapped into rooms during the shocks, but the city's art treasures, and the famous Campanile, St. Mark's Cathedral, and the Doges' Palace were uninjured.

The palace owned by the Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-von Reventlow on the Grand canal also showed no sign of damage.

Fifteen were killed when a bell tower collapsed at Caneva di Sacile. Campaniles also fell at Cerdignano and Fregona, and the castle at Conegliano was partially wrecked, with one person killed.

The epicenter of the quakes was in the Adriatic. Seismographs showed disturbances lasting twenty minutes altogether. The worst of the two main shocks rattled the earth for three minutes.

Venice In Darkness

Venice was thrown into darkness, and panicked populations were reported in dispatches from Trieste, Fiume, and Zagreb.

"The whole village has been levelled," said the Chief of Carabinieri at Cordignano, speaking over the last telephone remaining in operation, "but miraculously no one was killed. Seventeen towns were badly damaged. The death list would be higher, police said, had the first shock been violent. Warned by the first trembles, people fled into open spaces before the more violent shake came.

This Safe, External Treatment

Helps END A COLD Quicker

The 3-Minute VapoRub Massage

Massage VapoRub briskly on the throat, chest and back (between and below the shoulder blades). Then spread it thick over the chest and cover with warmed cloth.

Almost before you finish rubbing, VapoRub starts to bring relief two ways at once—two direct ways:

1. Through the Skin. VapoRub acts direct through the skin like a poultice or plaster.

2. Medicated Vapors. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by body heat, are breathed in for hours—about 18 times a minute—direct to the irritated air-passages. This combined poultice-and-vapor action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation—helps break congestion.

During the night, VapoRub keeps right on working. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

Avoids Risk of Stomach Upsets

This safe, external treatment cannot possibly upset the stomach, as constant internal "dosing" is so apt to do. It can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child.

Junior Chamber Leaflet Read Throughout State

A four-page pamphlet carrying an up-to-date review of New Castle facts, issued by the Junior Chamber of Commerce primarily to boost the city's advantages as "the convention center of Western Pennsylvania," is being read by residents all over the state these days.

Thousands of copies of the leaflet have been distributed throughout Pennsylvania in recent weeks. A copy of the pamphlet is going out along with all out-of-city mail leaving Mayor Charles E. McGrath's office.

President W. Herbert Smith said today more copies of the new work will be printed shortly.

"We've received many fine comments," reported President Smith. "The committee that handled the job, handled it well—we hope it will help promote conventions here."

An artistic front page sketch reveals New Castle's location in the center of a 500-mile radius and discloses this to be true:

In the 500-Mile radius is 56 percent of the population of the United States, 47 percent of Canada's population, 65 percent of the manufacturing establishments of the United States, 70 percent of the nation's invested capital, 73 percent of the industrial employes of the country and 74 percent of the country's industrial payroll.

The junior chamber is this week completing plans for assisting Superintendent of Schools C. C. Green and others in handling the two-day convention of the Mid-Western section of the Pennsylvania State Education Association on October 23 and 24.

Bethel U. P. Church Having Home Coming

Preparations Being Made To Greet Former Members On Sunday, October 25

The Bethel U. P. church will be the mecca for a throng of former Bethelites on Sunday, October 25, if plans already formulated are carried out.

It will be a great day. A program similar to one conducted 40 years ago on the same date, when Joseph McKim was leader, will be presented.

In the morning services will begin at 11 o'clock, followed by communion and Bible school. In the evening the young people will be in charge and will present a program similar to those of former years. They have selected Miss Alice Dice, now of Pittsburgh, as the leader.

The church, located on the Pinchot road three miles southwest of Mt. Jackson, has undergone many improvements during the past few years. It has been moved back from the road, a basement and kitchen added, the entire church re-decorated and the lawn beautified by the planting of shrubs.

Each family is preparing to receive for dinner friends who will come from distant places and who may wish to remain for the evening service. Invitations have already been sent to former members. All inquiries concerning the home-coming will be answered by Miss Martha Zahniser, Chester Kyle, James Nesbitt and the pastor, Rev. George W. Neill.

District Gatherins Of Methodist Groups

Several meetings are being planned in the Grove City District of the Erie Conference, Methodist Episcopal church for the next several weeks.

A district laymen's banquet will take place at the First church, at Sharon, on Thursday, October 29, at 6:30 p. m.

The annual district conference will be conducted at Pulaski on the afternoon and evening of Friday, November 6

The Methodist Men's annual Armistice Day meeting will be an event of Wednesday, November 11, at the Grace church, Oil City.

CENSORED!...IS THIS RUSSIA?

NEW DEAL CENSORSHIP BOARD KILLS TAX FILM—LOOK AT THE PICTURES—READ THE STATEMENTS—THEN ASK YOURSELF—IS IT IMMORAL OR DID THEY FEAR TO HAVE THE PUBLIC KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT TAXES?

THE LAW SAYS

"The Board shall examine or supervise the examination of all films, reels or views to be exhibited or used in Pennsylvania; and shall approve such films, reels or views which are moral and proper: and shall disapprove such as are sacrilegious, obscene, indecent or immoral, or such as tend, in the judgment of the Board to debase or corrupt morals." (The italics are ours)

NOTE: The law gives no authority to pass upon facts or views expressed in films.

HERE'S WHAT HAPPENED

Crusader films were submitted to the Censorship Board by the distribution organization hired to place them in the hands of the theaters. The film "Don't Blame Your Butcher" was DISAPPROVED. One film "Dogs, Monkeys and Men" was passed.

The Alexander Film Company started shipping the latter to the theaters, but soon sent word it would have to discontinue distribution in the State due to political pressure.

Mr. Z. L. Potter, representing the Crusaders then asked the censors' approval of seven films—which the Board has failed to act upon to date.

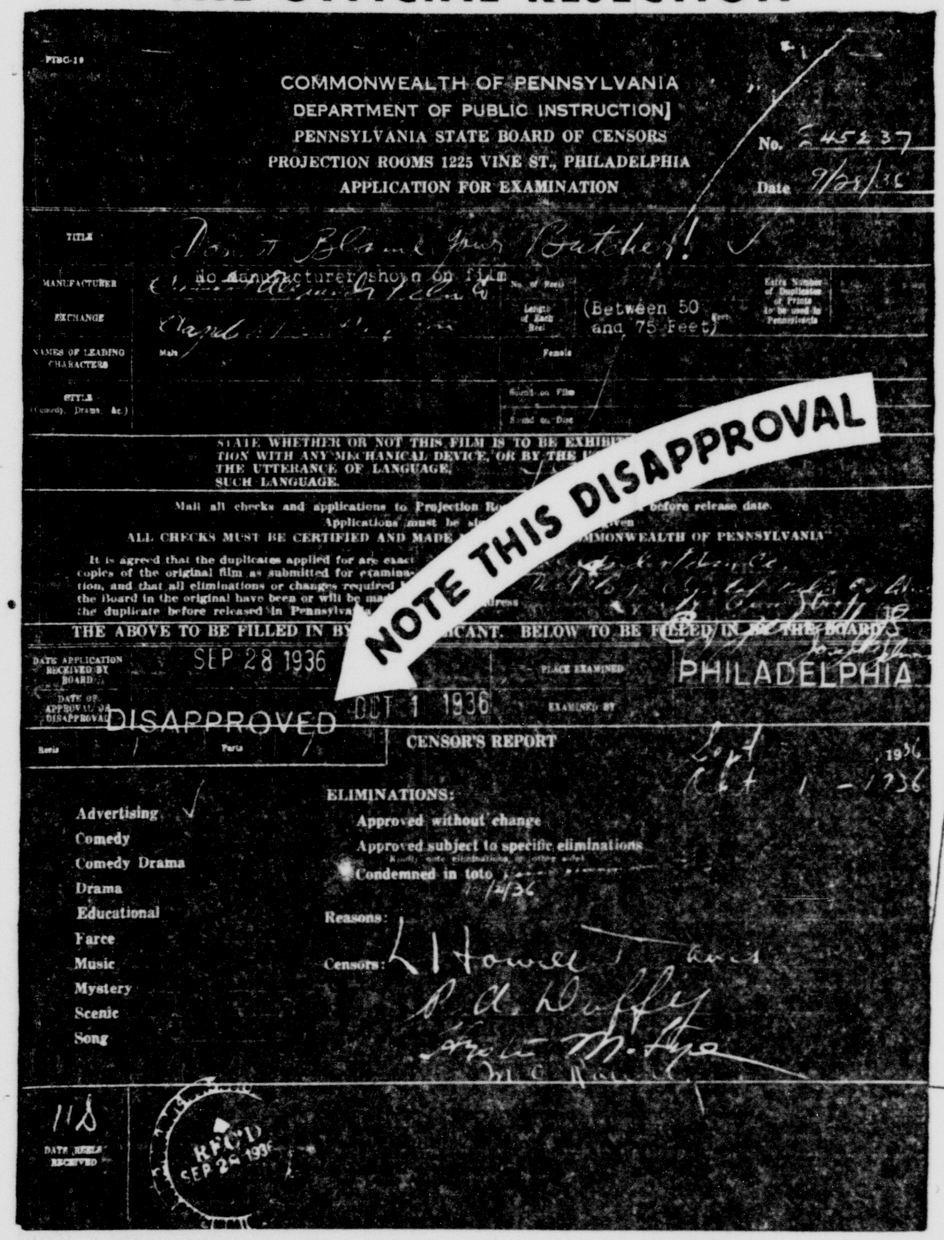

Two Alexander Film Company representatives in a personal interview used all their power to persuade Mr. Potter to abandon the project in Pennsylvania.

A prominent official of the organization distributing the films nationally sent the wire reproduced on this page explaining the tremendous pressure being brought to kill the films and stop their distribution.

Every important scene and every statement in the film killed by the censors is shown below.

Is this Russia where the power of the government can be used to suppress free speech and keep the truth from the people? Judge for yourself.

THE OFFICIAL REJECTION

SWORN STATEMENT OF FACTS

1. I produced a series of films for the Crusaders and was empowered to distribute them nationally.

2. I employed General Screen Advertising to arrange for their showing in moving picture theaters. The Alexander Film Corporation was employed by them to distribute the films in Pennsylvania.

3. We were notified that the Pennsylvania Censors had held up "Don't Blame Your Butcher" but had passed "Dogs, Monkeys and Men."

4. We were then told so much pressure had been brought on the distributors they would, to protect their regular business, have to withdraw from Pennsylvania.

5. I appeared before the Board of Censors myself and asked approval of seven films.

6. The Board stated some of the films had been sent to theaters before censors' approval was asked. I replied that if this were so, it had been done without my knowledge or consent: that if the law had been broken, the Board had recourse in the manner prescribed by law on the parties violating it. But this had no bearing upon the morality of the films or the right of the Board to refuse approval of their legal showing.

7. The Board said it is against its rules to have the name of the sponsors at the end of films instead of at the beginning. The Chairman gave me a copy of the rules. There was no such provision.

8. These films are being screened without hindrance in 29 other states. No other state has refused to permit their showing.

A DAMAGING TELEGRAM

Telegram, sent by an important officer of the film distributing company, urging Mr. Potter to abandon fight and explaining why. Do you think it a good reason?

THIS IS THE FILM THEY KILLED

1. As pictures are shown of butcher's display case a voice says: "Pork Roast is up 39% Round steak is up 40% Roasting chickens are up 59% Rib Roast is up 41% NO WONDER WOMEN WONDER"

2. The butcher says: "Yes, madam—Beef is up 41% over 1933." The housewife replies: "That's awful! Almost half again as much as I used to pay!" The butcher answers: "Don't blame me."

3. The housewife, puzzled, asks: "But, what's the reason?" Pointing to a sign on the wall the butcher replies: "Well, there's a good part of the reason!"

4. Close-up of sign on the wall giving facts that every man, woman and child should know about taxes.

5. Puzzled again the housewife exclaims: "And my husband told me he didn't make enough to have to pay taxes!"

6. The butcher then expresses these truths: "Well, he pays them all right. WE ALL PAY THEM—rich or poor, in everything we buy. They tell me that 61 cents out of every dollar collected to run the Government at Washington comes out of the consumer's pocket-book."

You have seen the pictures that were suppressed, read the statements censored. In your opinion are they immoral? Then ask yourself this: Why should a NEW DEAL Board wish to kill this film that simply lets people know that they pay taxes in the cost of the food they buy—UNLESS THE NEW DEALERS HAVE A GUILTY CONSCIENCE ABOUT WASTE OF THE TAXPAYERS' MONEY?

It is possible that under pressure of public opinion created by this advertisement the censors will reverse themselves and pass these films. But note this: Approval was asked for "Don't Blame Your Butcher" on September 28th. It was refused on October 1st and that refusal stands to date.

Is not this abuse of power—this suppression of FREE SPEECH an insult to this Commonwealth—Cradle of Liberty in these United States? Twenty-nine other states are permitting screening of these films without hindrance.

You the people of Pennsylvania own the Censorship Board. It is subject to the will of the party in power. The ultimate approval or disapproval of its acts is in your hands.

Four Mat Bouts At Arena Here Tonight

Frank Sexton And Al Getz Carded For Feature Bout

WALLICK TO OPPOSE BOB BLAKE

Al Getz, the German, and Frank Sexton, the Ohio farmer, pro heavyweight grapplers, are scheduled to meet in a match to last 90 minutes unless a fall is scored sooner at the Arena garden tonight. There will be three other bouts, the first of which will begin at 8:30 p. m., according to Peter Askounes, wrestling promoter.

Sexton and Getz have appeared here before. Sexton has met practically all of the best heavyweights now romping in tri-state rings. He is popular with the fans. Getz was disqualified in his first appearance here then lost to Leon Grandovitch, the Russ', who is one of the hardest of the Haft aggregation to down. However, Getz is plenty tough.

Believing that Sexton and Getz are well liked here, the promoter asked for the matching of the pair in the hope of bolstering up the crowds at the Arena. It may come about that tonight's assemblage will far outshine that of two weeks ago.

Wallick On Card.

Leo Wallick, the flash from Youngstown, is docketed for action against Bob Blake. Both possess a following and the question as to who is the best light-heavyweight wrestler now grappling here will come tonight because Wallick pinned down Joe Banaski two weeks ago.

Joe Banaski, defeated by Wallick, is slated for a match with Gorilla Grubmeyer. Both have wrestled here against different opponents. They will meet in the second preliminary. The first bout will find King Kong, man of antics, opposed to Whitey Govro, said to be a fairly good wrestler.

With several popular grapplers on the bill the promoter anticipates that each of them will unfurl all of their ability and give the crowd a night of thrills. There are several hundred fans here who are dyed-in-the-wool supporters of the grapplers and they will be in their seats when the bell rings.

Martins Ferry Defeats Warren

Sharon Hands Grove City High Upsetting On Saturday

Martins Ferry high football team kept its 1936 record clean Saturday at the Ferry town, by taking the measure of Warren, Ohio, Harding High 25 to 0. The game was played in a sea of mud and water, but this didn't seem to bother the Martins Ferry boys any.

The "Purple Raiders" hung up their fifth straight of the season. Spear scored twice, Bennett and F. Orend scored once each. New Castle plays at Martins Ferry on Saturday, November 7. New Castle plays at Warren this coming Friday night.

Sharon High blasted the Mercer county title hopes of a hard fighting Grove City High team 26 to 7, and showed plenty of power in doing it.

Slippery Rock Defeats Titans

Game Played In Mud Saturday Afternoon; Score Is 14 To 0

SLIPPERY ROCK COMPLETES PASSES

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 19.—Better muddlers than the Westminster Titans by two touchdowns, the Rockets scored twice in the second quarter and staved off a Titan offensive in the final frame to hand the New Wilmington eleven its third setback of the season, 14-0.

Bailey, punting with the wind at his back in the first quarter, punted the Titans out of danger five times and kept the ball in Rocket territory with the ball resting on the 35-yard line as the first frame ended. But five minutes into the second quarter, two gallops around end by Schmidt and Meals, Rocket backs, and a pass, Meals to Parsons, put the Rockets on the Titan 20-yard line. A line plunge on a spinner was good for first downs, and Meal's pass to Gibson was good for a touchdown. Meals added the extra point from placement, making the score 7-0.

With another exchange of punts the Rockets started a second goalward push late in the quarter from the Titan 25-yard marker. Slippery Rock backs, wearing white jerseys with green numerals, all looked alike five minutes after the game started because of the ankle-deep mud in the central areas of the Titan field. But unidentified as they were, they unloosened a series of six spinners and fake reverses which ended when Schmidt caught the Titan backfield napping as he skirted left end untouched for a touchdown while the Titan linemen and backs were tackling fake ball carriers on the right end of the line. Again Meals' toe was good for a point and the score rose to 14-0.

Seven punts in the third quarter kept both teams in the skidding territory around midfield, with neither goal line threatened. In the final period a Rocket drive from the Titan 27-yard line brought two first downs and a chance for goal from the Titan one-yard line, but the Westminster team was stubborn and held for downs. Shoup punted out of danger.

Near the end of the quarter the Titans started from their 30 and drove deep into the Rocket section, beginning with Laposki's diving squirm through the center of the line for a first down in midfield. Bailey's pass to Brown was good for 15 yards and a second first down. On the next play Bailey's toss to Laraway was good for six yards. A penalty cost the Titans the next completed pass, Bailey to Miller, good for another 15. From the Rocket 35, Westminster failed to gain, and lost the ball when Schick, Rocket back, intercepted a Titan pass on the 20-yard stripe. The game ended on the next play.

The kicking of Bailey again was excellent, as was the defensive work of Shoup and Laraway in backing up the line. At ends, Miller, frosh right end, and Douds, Sharon senior, played well.

Almost miraculous was the pass attack of the Green and White Rocket team, with seven completed passes out of seven tries, and two interceptions of Titan tosses.

Cold Roll Soft Ball Champions Get Trophy Cup

Dinner Sunday Night Is Enjoyable Event; Twenty-Three Are Present

Members of the Cold Rolls soft ball team, champions of the Carnegie-Illinois softball league the past year, and several invited guests gathered at a downtown tea-room last night and enjoyed a fine banquet. There were 23 present.

Trophy Presented.

The dinner consisted of chicken and stuffing and all the trimmings. The dinner end of the program out of the way, Godfrey Richards assumed the role of toastmaster. His first act was to present to Captain Johnny Morgan of the Cold Roll champions the beautiful Gerson trophy cup donated by Jack Gerson. Mr. Morgan, after a few remarks of acceptance, turned the cup over to General Foreman of the Cold Rolls Grant Parks and to his assistant, Dave Pitzer, for safe-keeping.

Everyone present was then called upon by Toastmaster Richards to say a few words. All were of the opinion that the Cold Rolls were deserving of the championship. Everyone expressed a desire for a bigger and better C. I. S. C. O. softball league next year and the Cold Roll boys were vehement in their declarations that the Cold Rolls would take the title again next year if they had the same kind of cooperation that carried them through triumphantly this year.

President Causino of the C. I. S. C. O. league spoke very fine of the type of young men who played on the Cold Rolls team, and thanked the men for their cooperation with him. He thanked Edgie Seneski for his assistance with the league details.

The event promises to become an annual affair for the Cold Roll young men, win, lose or draw, as they put it.

Twenty-three Present.

The following attended the dinner: President Norman Causino, Godfrey Richards who acted as toastmaster, Ivor Daniels, Grant Parks, Dave Pitzer, Eugene Cirwinski, Joe Orrica, Lou Sweet and Charles "Bugs" Walther as special guests of the occasion, and the following members of the Cold Roll championship team: Captain Jonnny Morgan, Edgie Seneski, W. Pittaway, Eddie Kendra, Louie George, Leyshon Coughlin, W. Smith, Merrill Parks, Joe Oleski, Stanley Bonk, Joe Masajada, Stanley Knis, Russ Neyman and Dan Morgan who served the team as bat-boy.

Chicago Bears Topple Pirates

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Oct. 19—The Chicago Bears today led the Western division of the national professional football league.

The Bears kept their record inviolate yesterday by winning their fifth game with Pittsburgh's Pirates the victims, 26 to 7.

Pittsburgh's pass attack was a constant menace to the Bears, but the Chicagoans managed to pull out of trouble with the single exception of 58 yards by Matesic in the second quarter that paved the way for the Pirate's only hope.

Pittsburgh's line was unable to halt the vicious line smashes of Nagurski, Manders, Feathers, Ronzani, Nolting.

MINNESOTA IS STILL WINNING

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 19—With the feeling that a man's a chump to go for too much of that straight vanilla on an empty stomach the business of college football lay prostrate on its bed of pain this morning, tossing fitfully and denying itself to friends. As a matter of fact, it didn't have any friends. After what happened during Saturday's orgy, all it had was an old fashioned Monday morning hangover, the kind you used to cure in the police court.

But you couldn't cure this with the Mayor Brothers. It's a national headache. It resists all remedy and relief. Personally, I think we'll have to amputate.

Minnesota Wins

That, incidentally, might be one way to stop Minnesota. Another would be to call out the state militia. It won its twentieth straight on Saturday to tie Notre Dame's record of 1921, causing all loyal gophers to decide that the national championship is just a breeze, with no runner up. As a matter of fact, if you don't pick the Minnesota second team for that, you aren't a loyal gopher.

Duke, Yale, the Army, Purdue, Notre Dame, Texas Aggies and Northwestern may have something further to say in that connection, but before going into that, it is necessary to deal with Saturday's victims who suddenly and unexpectedly discovered that the road to the Rose Bowl is not paved with rose petals. I'm even beginning to suspect that it's paved with seidlitz powders.

Pitt Halted

Pittsburgh was going to win the national championship and on Saturday it couldn't even win the championship of Pittsburgh. It lost to Duquesne by 7 to 0 and deserved it. So did Princeton by the same score and same token. It blew one to Pennsylvania after winning twelve in succession and now has a losing streak of one straight.

Georgia Tech, they said, was as good as it's 1929 Rost Bowl champion. But it wasn't as good as Duke, which won by 19 to 6 and now should go through undefeated. Moreover, Alabama, regarded as a bellwether of the South, finished in a scoreless tie with Tennessee, already beaten by North Carolina and Auburn. North Carolina didn't help itself with a 14 to 13 decision over a muddling N. Y. U. opponent. Auburn came up and took Detroit by a touchdown while Tulane also kept up with the pack by annihilating Colgate. This Southern pair, therefore, still has a chance, since they haven't been tied by somebody else, but by each other.

In the same way, Southern California and Washington State remained eligible although failing to score in their game, since both are still undefeated. But the coast situation in connection with the Rose Bowl is a little alarming. Stanford has lost to Santa Clara and Washington state. Washington lost to Minnesota then U. C. L. A. lost to Washington; then California lost to U. C. L. A. for one of Saturday's jaunty little episodes.

Massillon Fans Well Pleased By Treatment Here

Ride Home On Special Train And Discuss Hospitality Of New Castle, Pa.

Luther "Luke" Emery, Massillon sports editor in his paper on Saturday could not praise New Castle enough for its hospitality extended to the Massillon football team and fans here last Friday night.

Emery says "Masillon has played a lot of games away from home, but never have the Tigers been treated like New Castle treated them. They even had a fleet of cars on hand to take our boys to the hotel from the train. Imagine that if you can. The people of New Castle were courteous and good natured.

"Mayor Henry Krier, who was taken in tow by Mayor Charles E. McGrath upon his arrival here, could hardly wait to get back to Massillon to tell the folks about the fine city of New Castle, its great mayor and the general good feeling that existed even if the Tigers did upset the Red Hurricane."

FARRELL DEFEATS ELLWOOD HI 13-6

Small Crowd Watches Hard Fought Battle In Rain And Mud At Lincoln Field

THOMAS RUNS THE KICKOFF FOR SCORE

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 19—In a hard fought battle in rain and mud at Lincoln Field Saturday afternoon Farrell high school came away with a 13-6 victory over Ellwood City Hi. A small crowd watched the game in the mud during a steady drizzle.

The blue and white Wolverines were unable to get over the score made in the opening kickoff by the visitors who then converted a fluke extra point to take a 7-0 lead before anybody got warmed up to the game. Due to the weather and conditions of the field both teams played mostly a defensive game and punted continually. Each played for the breaks that would be made possible on this kind of a day.

Scores On Kickoff

The first score came sudden and swift and gave Farrell High a decided edge throughout the remainder of the game. Myers kicked off for Ellwood. It was received by Thomas on his own 19. After some maneuvering in midfield he headed for the sidelines eluding two would-be tacklers and outrun the remainder of the Ellwood team for a touchdown with his run of 81 yards. A fluke extra point was made when McKinnis' placement kick bounded off the hands of an Ellwood back and careened over the goal posts. The remainder of the period was spent in punting as was most of the game. Ellwood punted 19 times and Ferrell 21 for the game. Each team was only able to make 3 first downs. The home team made 49 yards thru scrimmage and the visitors 43.

Ellwood's score came in the second period as the result of a blocked punt. McKinnis dropped back to his own 30 to punt. It was blocked by Pishioneri, Ellwood center, and recovered by left end Blaine who scooped it up on the Farrell 36 and raced for a touchdown. A line buck by Koah for extra point failed giving Farrell a 7-6 lead at the half.

Ellwood Scores

The third quarter was a see-saw affair with the usual punting and neither team threatening seriously. Early in the fourth quarter the locals made a serious threat when they took possession of the ball on Farrell's 46 after a punt. Ellwood started a passing attack that brought them to the six yard line. The first pass Kolch to Galati was incomplete. Then Funari passed to Kolch for six yards and another pass to Bartle was ruled as interference and good for a 15 yard gain to place the pigskin on the Farrell 25. Funari passed to Galati for ten yards more and then skirted right end for a four yard gain to place the ball on the six yard line. Bill Young then replaced Galati in the backfield. He passed to Snare over the goal line where it was fumbled. Two more aerial attempts were incomplete to give Farrell the ball on their own six.

In the dying moments of the game the locals again opened up on a passing attack that proved disastrous. Funari's consecutive flings to Galati and Sam were incomplete. On the third attempt right tackle Low broke through and hit Funari's attempted pass. It bounded in the air and into Low's arms who raced 30 yards for a touchdown. McKinnis missed a placement kick for extra point.

Blaine, Fehl, Pishioneri, Perry and Keller played a bang-up game in the line for Ellwood while Funari, Snare, Galati and Leopardi were good in the backfield. For Farrell Burich, Low, Bonadio and Adams were best in the line, while Thomas, J. Leavens and McKinnis were outstanding in the backfield.

Ellwood Away Saturday.

After a three-game stay at home the local Wolverines will play away from home for the next two weeks. Saturday they will invade Midland for a battle with Coach Rusty Lomond's Crucibles and the following week they will be at Aliquippa.

The summary:

Feather Thrower Heckles Coughlin

Will Turn Woody Hockaday, 52, Over To His Relatives, Is Belief

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Oct. 19—Woody Hockaday, 52, of Wichita, Kansas who nearly precipitated a riot at a national union for social justice rally by throwing feathers on Rev. Chas. E. Coughlin, probably will be turned over to relatives, police said toady.

Clad in Indian feather head dress, red shirt and white trousers, Hockaday leaped on the platform at the state fairgrounds coliseum Saturday afternoon while Father Coughlin was talking and hurled a bag of feathers at the radio priest.

"You can't mix politics and religion" Hockaday yelled.

Brief Struggle

There was a struggle for a brief few minutes on the stage with Father Coughlin trying to reach Hockaday. Angry spectators in the crowd of 5,000 surged forward with shouts of "kill him," "let us at him," but Father Coughlin calmed his supporters by raising his hand and shouting, "Let no one lay a hand on him."

Police rushed Hockaday to a jail cell after some trouble in over-powering him. Hockaday's wife telephoned from Buffalo, saying she would arrive in Detroit today to take care of her husband. Hockaday, police said, escaped from a mental institution at Baltimore and had been arrested previously for feather throwing episodes at an American Legion convention at Baltimore and at the office of then Secretary of War Dern.
